Frosts report from Israel, Jordan

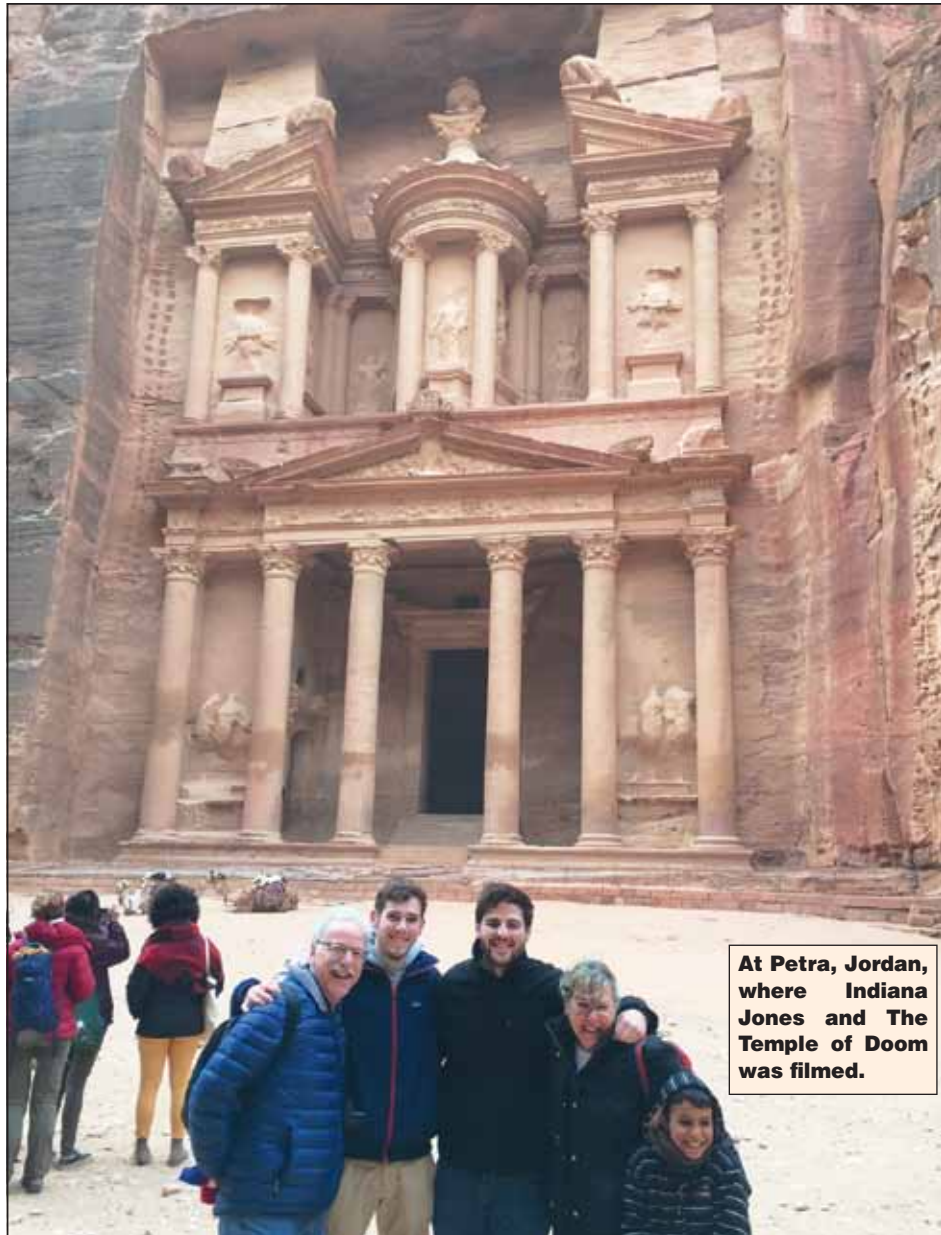

By Mark Frost
Chronicle Editor

The Frost family is in the midst of a two-week trip to Israel and Jordan, our first venture into the Middle East.

When our world-traveling 21-year-old son Max first pro-

Wedding 101: Setting the date

By Sally Longo
Special to The Chronicle

I've written several articles giving prospective brides advice on how to save money. Now that my own daughter is getting married, I know that the first important task is picking the date.

Sara and her fiancé casually mentioned they wanted to get married next year. The cattle prod in my chair went off and I jumped up. What?? 2016?? Where?? When?? Are you crazy – it's too late to get the vendors you want!! Then I took a breath.

Here's what I learned:

- Pick a whole day you can de-

Charles Evans Hughes: GF-bred Civil Rights hero

By William Loughrey
Special to The Chronicle

Charles Evans Hughes was born in Glens Falls to a woman of exceptionally strong faith and a father who was an abolitionist preacher, a head of the anti-slavery forces in the upper Hudson River Valley. Throughout his distinguished public career, Hughes was a civil rights stalwart, a role for which he has not been accorded credit.

For a century and a half, America's legal system followed a shameful and inhuman path on the issue of slavery, first ignoring
