Tries to fathom Frost, rejects Morse

Dear Mark,

I've always loved The Chronicle from your very first edition way back in 1980. You spoke so eloquently about your family's experience with the state and your turkey farm. [Editor's note: The reference is to actually to the Pepper Turkey Farm in Wilton.]

Letters to The Chronicle

You are smart, enterprising, driven and a voice for the North Country. You pride yourself in personifying the values of the area which are independence, intelligent ingenuity and right leaning conservatism.

I appreciate the first two traits but not the latter. I have read your commentaries to gain insight into the mind of a socially moderate libertarian leaning republican. You have displayed wisdom often and at time folly.

On the whole, you have done a great job, but increasingly I have found myself doing a slow burn about your innuendoes and igno-

Agrees with Phil Morse

I could not have agreed with you more, Phil. I sit on the Planning Board in Queensbury and I have followed this ridiculous situation for many months now. I think the Fund for Lake

Death of a Glens Falls original

By Mark Frost
Chronicle Editor

Here's my favorite story, from personal experience, about my Glens Falls High School classmate Bob Howard, who passed away on April 1 at the age of 64.

In junior high, I was sports editor of the school newspaper Junior Highlights. The highlight of our year was the trip to New York City for the school newspaper convention put on by Colum-

Business Alliance aims to revive Carol Theater in Chestertown

By Gordon Woodworth
Chronicle News Editor

With Hudson Falls trying to revive its Strand, now a group in northern Warren County aims to do the same with the Carol Theater in Chestertown.

"We want to revive the theater," said Al Tolomeo, the jazz drummer heading up the Tri-Lakes

Business Alliance committee pursuing the possibility.

Built in the early 1930s, the 256-seat theater was home to vaudeville and traveling shows, and as recently as 2012 showed movies during the summer.

Mr. Tolomeo said he's been meeting regularly with Jona-

Lost her memory but got it back

By Nancy O'Brien
Chronicle Freelance

Saturday, Jan. 11 started like any normal Saturday. My husband Scott had a haircut, after which we went to breakfast at Steve's Place. Or so he tells me. I have no recollection of most of that day.

After breakfast, as we were driving home, Scott said that I became very agitated, because I couldn't remember what I had eaten for breakfast. I was afraid I was having a stroke. I couldn't keep things straight, and I was very confused. He tried to calm me, hoping I would feel better once we got home, but that was
