Only 4 Chronicles until Christmas!

Qby. Radio Shack is rare survivor

By David Cederstrom
Chronicle Staff Writer

In its heyday RadioShack operated 7,300 stores "and could claim that it had a store within three miles of 95% of all American households," USA Today wrote in May.

1 of 16 left, from 7,300

But now, as RadioShack works through bankruptcy, its roster has dwindled dramatically. More than 1,000 remaining

Parade quickly hit stride

By Gordon Woodworth
Chronicle News Editor

"The parade went very well, way smoother than we anticipated," says Megan Quinn, the 28-year-old nurse and mother of two who stepped up this fall to save Rescued by Meg Quinn, eager for next year.

the South Glens Falls Holiday Parade after The Post-Star dropped its title sponsorship.

Will she do it again? "Oh yes!" said Mrs. Quinn. "I think the [South Glens Falls] Fire Company will keep it for a while. I don't foresee it going anywhere any time soon."

Mark: May I talk turkey?

By Mark Frost
Chronicle Editor

At least every few years at Thanksgiving time, I feel the need to try to bring the outrageous demise of the Don Pepper Turkey Farm back into public consciousness.

As I was growing up in Glens Falls in the 1950's, everybody knew about the Pepper Turkey Farm. In the pre-Northway era, we all saw it every time we traveled U.S. Route 9 between Glens Falls and Saratoga.

We also knew the farm because pretty much everyone ate Pepper Turkey at Thanksgiving and

Backs Gibson view: 2nd amendment allows gun control

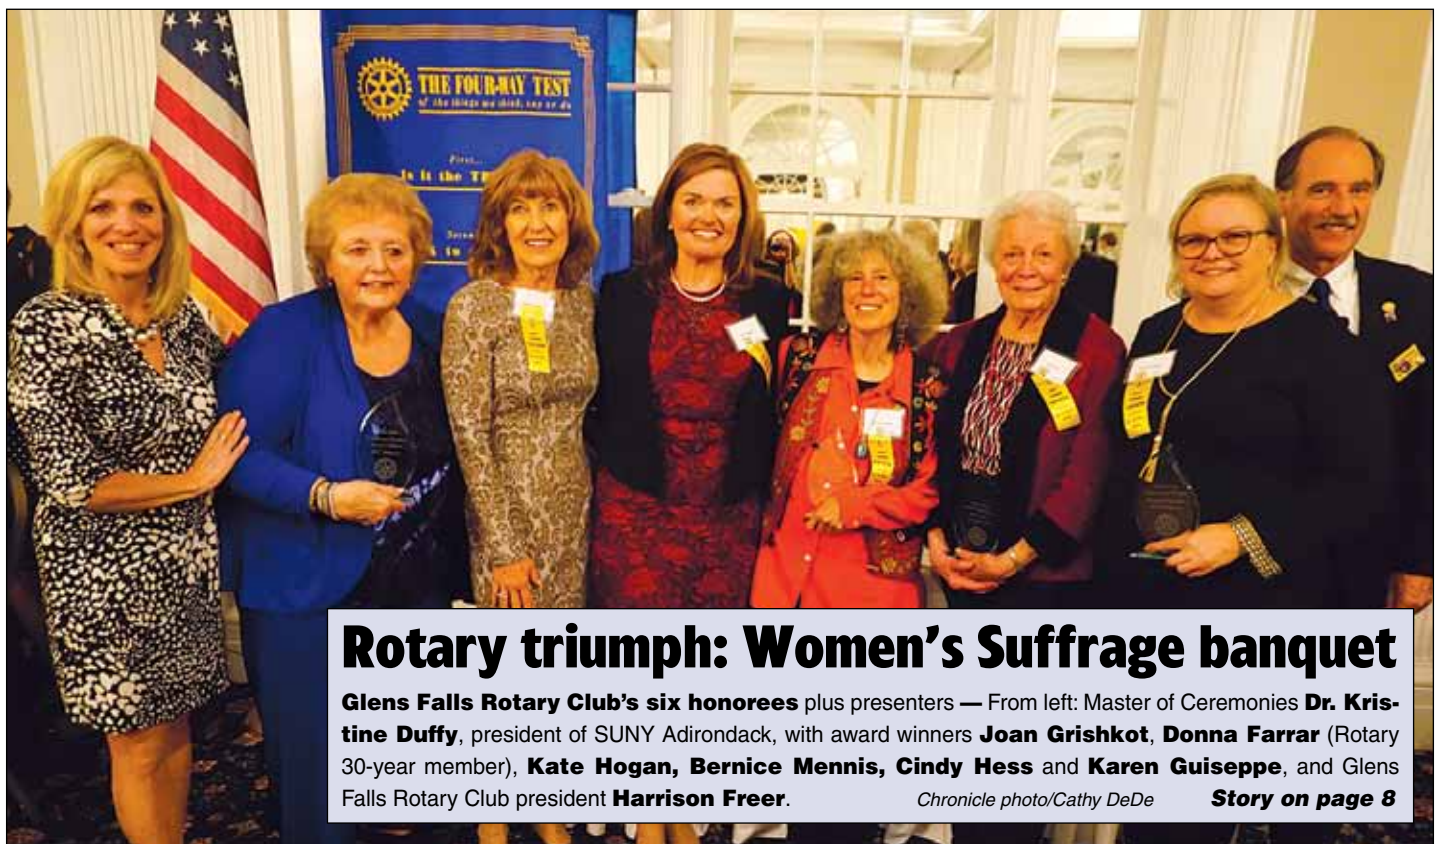

To the Editor:

It's good that Chris Gibson [Nov. 16 Chronicle, "Chris Gibson: My gun position isn't news; I support case law & Justice Scalia's view"] supports case law rather than original intent regarding the 2nd amendment. This was true for Antonin Scalia as well, despite his illogical and repeated claim for original intent interpretation of the Constitution.
