Sewage sniffing dogs on LG prowl

By Gordon Woodworth
 Chronicle News Editor

Two sewage-sniffing rescue dogs from Maine scoured Beach Road in Lake George Saturday, looking for the source of E. coli pollution that has closed Million Dollar Beach six times in the last three summers.

Pat Dowd of the Lake George Association said, "They are checking for human waste in storm sewers and water pipes and anything else running down to the lake."

The dogs are from a business called Environmental Canine Services in Otisville, Maine.

"Our dogs are like any other detection dog sniffing out bombs or drugs or investigating arson," said owner Karen Reynolds.

She guided Remi, a female Labrador Retriever mix, near sewer grates along Beach Road. Her technician Laura Lecker handled

Argues that Trump does trial run for fascism

By Fintan O'Toole

The Irish Times

To grasp what is going on in the world right now, we need to reflect on two things. One is that we are in a phase of trial runs. The other is that what is being trialed is fascism — a word that should

Objects to Chicago as Youtheatre show

To the Editor,

One of the selections for the Lake George Youtheatre this season is Chicago. What I do not understand is how this was deemed appropriate for High Schoolers. Chicago is set in 1920, as in gritty and dark. It is absolutely a commentary on the treatment

Reactions to Mark's 'Post-Star has its thumb on the scale'

Connie Brimmer commented on The Chronicle Facebook page: Kudos to Mark Frost for calling The Post-Star out on their bully tactics. They have perfected the art of making money off the promulgation of hate. It's most certainly working. They have created a poisonous atmosphere in our community, which is easily
