Reading Chronicle, his thoughts are of lazing on boat at Sandy Bay

Mark,
Just finished reading this week's Inside Scoop and it inspired me to drop you a note since I have picked up your paper many times in Bolton during the summer.

While I read The Chronicle every week, even in the middle of an upstate New York winter, what I think of when I'm reading it is relaxing on my boat that's anchored in Sandy Bay on a hot summer day and drinking an ice cold beer.

I read every word cover to cover.

In the midst of another miserable upstate New York winter, I hope this e-mail gives you a smile thinking about a nice afternoon relaxing in Sandy Bay.

Thanks for your paper.

'gaslight' plan falls through

By Gordon Woodworth
Chronicle News Editor

Plans have been scrapped to open the restaurant "gaslight" in the former Bistro Tallulah space at 26 Ridge Street. Building owner Charles Mineo is now looking to lease the first-floor restaurant space, with the chef and staff intact.

"We decided to go in a different direction," Chuck Mineo told The Chronicle.

"The space is fully equipped and turn-key, with an executive chef, Colin Miner, who has hand-picked his back-of-the-house staff. He's ready to go."

Mr. Mineo said investors interested in the space can contact him at 518-361-2348.

Chuck Mineo's son Frank was going to run 'gaslight,' and had
