Beware of bear ends in its death

"On Monday, July 6, DEC Forest Rangers and Wildlife staff trapped a nuisance bear that had been aggressively approaching campers in the Lake Colden area of the Adirondack High Peaks over the past few weeks," Department of Environmental Conservation spokesman David Winchell told The Chronicle Tuesday.

"Due to a documented escalation of the bear's aggressive behavior since 2018, DEC determined the bear was a threat to public

So much news...

By Mark Frost
Chronicle Editor

Holidays are typically slow news times, but not July 4th this year. Here's some of what's happened in recent days.

- Covid 19 cases re-summed. Warren County went weeks in June without new cases, but a flight from Florida resulting in three residents being found Covid positive started a daily drum-beat of fresh diagnoses, one or two daily. The operator of an unidentified "personal care" business was diagnosed, causing 25 contacts, including 11 clients, to be contacted and quarantined.

- Warren County demanded that 'big box stores' Walmart, Lowe's and Home Depot in

Apologizes to 'people of color'; 'profound impact' on them & him

Mark Frost,

Mark, I have to tell you that the reaction to my personal apology has been amazing. I have run into many people, particularly in Lake George, and the reactions have been overwhelming. Without exception,

To the Editor:

The short answer to why I read the Chronicle is to keep up on the news in the Glens Falls area, I suppose.

In terms of feedback, I would say that I enjoy the layout, the font is easy enough to read and not too small, and the color photos are nice to view.

I feel the paper is overall very positive, even when discussing contentious issues.

There is a different spin than the Post-Star on the same information; the Chronicle seems more informational and willing to consider both sides and let the reader decide, rather than trying to intentionally make people angry or react in a certain way.

I often feel that the Chronicle
