

Didn't just make an ice rink; he built his own Zamboni!

By Mark Frost Chronicle Editor

Dustin Underwood didn't just build an ice rink in the backyard of his Queensbury home in the Herald Square neighborhood.

He also custom-built his own Zamboni machine out of spare parts to make the ice surface clear and smooth.

Dustin, a mechanic for the Town of Moreau, says of his "contraption: The key compo-

The rink involves the whole family — Dustin and his wife Ashley Heinz Underwood, who maintain it, and their children Emilee, 13, Brayden, 8, and Dalton, 6, who play hockey on it incessantly.

"It's a lot of work but they spend so much time out here," says Ashley. "No matter the weather, as long as it's not raining, they're out here."

"I think there's more people doing it this year than ever," Dustin notes, not only because people are home more due to the pandemic but also "you never know if the Youth Hockey will get shut down. You want to have Please turn to page 7

The Pulpers. That's the first one that popped into my head. It gets at the essence of Glens Falls — the papermill that now and for more than a century does the most elemental thing — turns logs into paper. The critical step is pulp cooked in Finch Paper's continuous digester. (By the way, I think log trucks should be the emblem of Glens Falls.) Puppy Bowl, on TV before the Super Bowl, was recorded in GF at Cool Arena over the Cool Insuring Arena here in Glens Falls for 10 days last October.

The three-hour show airs at 2 p.m. on Super Bowl Sunday, Feb. 7, on cable networks discovery+ and Animal Planet.

The football-themed, cute-forward competition promotes pet adoption.

Puppies provided by animal shelters from around the Northeast battle it out as "Team Ruff" and "Team Fluff."

The dogs score points for their "teams" when, in the course of playing with dog toys strewn on a dog-scaled football field, they happen to pick one up and carry it by mouth or kick it into the end zone.

The goal in the 10 days of filming is to shoot enough footage to create a dramatic football storyline in post-production.

All the dogs featured on the field have since been adopted, Erin Wanner, vice president of production for Animal Planet. told The Chronicle, but others shown during "Pup Close" breaks will be available.

A boon last October for downtown

We loved Glens Falls," Ms. Wanner said. "What a wonderful city you have."

"It was such a relief to be somewhere where the Covid was not so bad and you could move around," she said.

The Puppy Bowl packed a lot of punch locally: 70 puppies in town; 210 production Animal Planet staff members here over 10 days, 145 at a time; 700+ roomnights rented at the Queensbury Hotel; seven restaurants providing catered lunches and many others serving staff members who also dined out for dinner.

Cool Insuring Arena manager Jeff Mead said his staff gained too. Each day of the shoot employed 8-10 local security people, 2-3 EMS, 4-6 operations employees, and 6-25 local union stage hands to help with set-up, operations and breakdown.

Five local volunteers helped out as puppy handlers. Glens Falls Animal Hospital provided veterinary and vet tech services.

The Puppy Bowl typically shoots at a sound stage in New York City, but because of Covid restrictions last fall, "it just could not happen," Ms. Wanner said.

"We had the idea to shoot it at a sports arena somewhere, for a stadium-in-a-stadium feel.'

Another Chad Rabinovitz connection

Chad Rabinovitz, the (soon to depart) Adirondack Theatre Festival director, told a friend on the Puppy Bowl production team about Glens Falls - and he wound up serving as the location manager.

'Glens Falls had everything we needed," Ms. Wanner said. "The Queensbury Hotel was attractive for its capacity and it has wonderful Covid protocols, and they are dog-friendly."

Davidson's, Doc's Restaurant, Downtown City Tavern, Downtown Social, New Way Lunch, Raul's Mexican and The Queensbury all catered lunches.

Ms. Wanner especially loved "that sushi place," The Mikado, and other company members raved about Morgan and Co.

"Everyone loved both Spot Coffee and Spektor Coffee Roasters," she added.

Martha Stewart & Snoop Dogg

This Sunday's telecast will feature celebrities including animal advocate Kristen Bell, Tostito spokespeople Martha Stewart and Snoop Dogg, and others. Monday Night Football play-by-play man Steve Levy and SportsCenter host Sage Steele are among the Puppy Bowl commentators.

"We would love to" shoot again in Glens Falls," Ms. Wanner said. "We just have to figure if we are going to be back in New York City next year. I really liked doing the stadium within a stadium look."

Granville natives commit $500,000 to start foundation

Paula and Michael Freed. Granville natives who live now in Grand Rapids, Michigan, have committed $500,000 to create a Granville Community Foundation fund through the Glens Falls Foundation, said a press release.

It said the Freeds donated $250,000 in December and said that they will match 50% of every donation made, to an additional $250,000" from them and potential overall total of $1 million.

Covid: The good news & the bad

Vaccinations remain hard to come by. Washington County Health Department wrote, "Please know and understand that the supply remains extremely limited and our ability to hold events and expand our distribution program all de-pend on that supply and the direction on allocation use we receive from the state."

Meanwhile, not all want it. "Gov. Andrew Cuomo said...state officials expect 30% of health-care workers offered the vaccine will ultimately turn it down," reported the Jan. 31 Wall Street Journal.

• U.S. hospitalizations fell below 100,000 for the first time since Dec. 1, reported the Jan. 31 Wall Street Journal. On Jan. 26: "New U.S. cases stay below 200,000 for ninth straight day." The post-Christmas surge is said to be over.

• Warren County has seen a de-cline in diagnoses, but five deaths from Sunday to Tuesday, Jan. 31-Feb. 2. Four were in their 80s, the other in 60s. The death rate lags declining case counts.

New York State said it will allow weddings with up to 150 people to resume in March, as long as county health officials approve. Guests must test negative for Covid and the facility must accommodate 150 at half capacity. Warren County said, "Warren County Health Services is awaiting additional informa-tion from New York State regarding this change and will publicize state and local guidelines when they are received.'

Sheriff Jeff Murphy: Fetanyl drug danger

Washington County Sheriff Jeffrey J. Murphy reports multiple recent suspected drug overdoses, including at least one death, may be associated with fentanyllaced cocaine and heroin.

"Fentanyl is dangerous and very potent, which greatly increases the risk of overdose and death," said a statement.

"In the suspected overdoses in the area in recent days, a mix of cocaine and fentanyl is suspected, however not yet confirmed. Some batches of the drug may have a blueish or purplish tint," and may be referred to as "Blue Heroin" on the street.

"Deputies have administered Narcan in several cases. However, attempts to reverse the effects of opioids does not work as well on cocaine laced mixtures," the sheriff said. "The Sheriff's Office is urging family, friends and support groups of those in a high-risk category for overdoses to be made aware of the possibility of the fentanyl laced mixtures in the area.

"If you suspect someone has overdosed, please do not hesitate to call 911 as time will be of the essence in these type cases."

GF Hospital nurse Kristen Stevenson, 33, dies; struck by hospital snowplow

Glens Falls Hospital nurse Kristen Lyne Stevenson, 33, died Tuesday, Jan. 26, when she was struck by a hospital snowplow around 5 p.m.

The Glens Falls Police Department said "The preliminary investigation indicates that a Glens Falls Hospital Employee was operating a plow truck in the rear area of the hospital. Ms. Stevenson unknowingly walked behind the plow truck as it was backing up.

"The truck then struck Ms. Stevenson. The plow truck was operated by Roger E. Maher, 59 years old, of Hudson Falls.

Calling hours and Kristen's funeral service were set for Tuesday, Feb. 2. at Baker Funeral Home in Queensbury with burial afterward at Pine View Cemetery.

Tony Jordan seeks reelection as D.A., Washington County

Washington County District Tony Jordan announced Tuesday that he will seek a third four-year term.

'The past 7 years have seen many challenges including changes to discovery and bail by Albany and the continuing challenges posed by the Heroin/Opiodepidemic. The New York State 2019-20 Budget transformed much of the Criminal Justice System.

"These transformative changes to discovery and bail ... are impacting the delivery of public protection in Washington County significantly.

"In typical Albany fashion, this new legislation provided no funding for implementation, infrastructure, resources or additional staff for the agencies it affects, such as 911 call centers, alternative sentencing, local courts, crime labs, police departments, and District Attorney's offices, among many others.

"Working with Law Enforcement agen-

Democrat Mary Gooden declared her candidacy for the Ward 5 seat on the Glens Falls Common Council. She said, "I had been thinking about it and then, with Jim Clark's term expired, I thought it was a perfect time to put my hat in the ring."

Mrs. Gooden, retired in 2016 after 32 years as Traffic Control Officer with the Glens Falls Police Department. She graduated from Glens Falls High School in the Class of 1976.

I've lived in the fifth ward my whole life," she says. "We are like a family over cies across Washington County, our County Information Technology office and the Board of Supervisors, we were able to transform the operations of our office from how Law Enforcement submits new arrests to reviewing and delivering all discovery to defense within 15 days of arraignment.

"The extent of this undertaking is best exemplified by the amount of evidence reviewed and turned over in just the first year.

"Based on historical crime figures for Washington County it was estimated that we would use 1 terabyte (tb) of data. For 2020 alone we used 4.5 tb's of data. The effective use of technology has allowed us to both comply with the new statutory requirements and do so with the least amount of impact on our county budget.

"The heroin/opioid surge continues to be a real challenge. Working with Sheriff Jeff Murphy, State Police, local law enforcement and many other colleagues at the County and other concerned members of the community we have made significant strides in advancing prevention and treatment opportunities and strengthening our enforcement efforts. This issue will no doubt continue to be a major challenge in the years ahead, but I look forward to being able to continue to lead this effort.

"Having the opportunity to continue the reforms we instituted over the past 7 years, working to address the many challenges we will face in the years to come, and continue to serve the great citizens of Washington County is why I am seeking reelection as your District Attorney."

here. We all know and help each other. I went away to college and came back here. I live here because I chose to live here.'

Mrs. Gooden says. "There is a lot going on here," including the new Broad Street Commons subsidized apartments.

She adds, "There are a lot of houses in the Fifth Ward that need to be upgraded, and the City has funds for these projects. Our playgrounds need work, and I'd like to see improvements to infrastructure continue in the City."

"I'm up on mostly everything in Glens Falls," Mrs. Gooden says. "I sit on a lot of boards."

She is president of the Glens Falls NAACP; just concluded 13 years on the Open Door mission board; and was recently named to the Committee for Diversity at Albany Medical Center, seeking parity for minority and lower income populations in Covid treatment and vaccines.

She serves on the boards for Economic, Community and Local Development in Glens Falls; the Police Reform Committees for the City of Glens Falls and for Warren County; the Glens Falls Small Business Recovery Fund committee.

Mrs. Gooden served on the Downtown Revitalization Initiative committee that brought a $10 million state grant to Glens Falls.

On distrust & the media...

By Mark Frost

Chronicle Editor

I like this line from a Trump supporter: If only they had thrown him off Twitter two months earlier, he'd have won re-election.

How can the news media win back the people who no longer trust them (us)?

That's a raging question this January. "Media trust hits new low," headlined Axios, an Internet news site that does some good reporting. On this story, though, Axios suggested a solution that was ridiculous.

"61% of Trump voters say that they trust their employer's CEO," Axios wrote. "That compares to just 28% who trust government leaders, and a mere 21% who trust journalists."

Axios says, "The bottom line" is "it's time" for CEOs "to use the trust they've built up to help rebuild our civic infrastructure." It said, "What's needed is for [them] to visibly embrace the news media."

I've got news for Axios. That won't make a dent in what ails the media. The big shots hold less sway by the day. The turn-around won't come from the top-down. The only hope to achieve it is from the bottom-up.

Enter Jack Shafer, the senior media writer for another Internet news site, Politico. Jack seems still to be in good standing with the lockstep left, but he's a free thinker who gets away with it. "We Mock the Rioters as Ignorant Buffoons at Our Peril" headlined his Jan. 13 dispatch.

He calls writers out by name. He wrote, "The Atlantic's Caitlin Flanagan wasted no time in her piece about the blitzkrieging of the Capitol on Jan. 6 to present her class-based critique of the mob. In her first sentence, Flanagan introduced the insurrectionists as 'a coalition of the willing: deadbeat dads, YouPorn enthusiasts, slow students, and MMA fans' and went on to claim that they had 'pulled into the swamp with bellies full of beer and Sausage McMuffins, maybe a little high on Adderall, ready to get it done." Then she wrote more and worse.

Much more needs to be talked about here, but I'm about out of space. I'll give Jack the last word: "There are no easy ways to quell this national rebellion, a rebellion that appears to be gaining velocity, but the first step has got to be organizing a political taxonomy that doesn't marginalize them as aliens. Instead of thinking of the rioters as 'them,' try thinking of them as 'us.' It's bound to make you uncomfortable, but at least it's a start."

Does the "Resign!" panel with the caricature of Elise Stefanik jump out at you as it did at me? It offended me, which is why I took the photo. It's rude.

Will Fowler, who placed it, may have thought it furthered his cause. I think he undermined it.

Elected officials deserve a measure of respect, even if you believe as Will does that Rep. Stefanik is a seditionist and must resign. It's his opinion. He's entitled to it.

Two weeks ago we let Chronicle readers know of Will's petition drive calling on the ARCC to disinvite Elise.

Last week, we published — on the front page — his letter to the editor elaborating his case.

The petition drive failed. Elise joined our local state legislators Dan Stec, Daphne Jordan, Matt Simpson, Carrie Woerner and Jake Ashby for the conversation.

It turned out to be interesting, useful and polite. (Read about it in some detail on pages 10 and 12.)

The election is over. It's time to end the campaign and work together, even try to get along. It's how we do things around here and one of the reasons this community holds together while some other places fall apart.

I don't expect Will to stop pursuing his passionate viewpoint. I'd just like him to realize he's just one person in the community. When you disrespect Elise, you disrespect nearly 200,000 voters. She won by 56,000!

If Elise's foes truly want to oust her — instead of vainly spewing venom — I suggest that respecting those with whom they disagree is step one toward getting it done.

"how to make the ice better and harder." "I did a lot of reading online" and he's always "talking to other parents with rinks."

Key: Use warm water in Zamboni

One key is he discovered is to use warm water in the Zamboni when surfacing the ice. "With the warm water it doesn't really chunk away," he says.

"I run five-gallon buckets out of the bathtub" to fill the Zamboni's 15-gallon drum.

Dustin keeps tinkering. He said he "punched more holes" in the flow pipe "to make more water come out" and added a chain "for weight. It holds the water better."

It achieved a win-win outcome: "Better surface, used less water.'

"My wife, she's a major contributor to keeping it going," Dustin hastens to add, especially on nights of snowstorms when he has to go plow for the Town of Moreau. "It's crucial to get the snow off the ice as soon as possible before it bonds to the ice." says Dustin. "She does much of the snow removal throughout storms. The driveway is always done and the rink has usually been done at least once [by Ashley].

That is an enormous help and contribution to the rink and keeping good ice."

Ashley: Can't avoid cold, night work Ashley, whose day job is being an ac-

This winter brought major improvements. "For my first-ever actual border this year," says Dustin. "I called Mead's Lumber and had 1x12x12 boards cut."

Last summer he says his "very good work friend" Tom Olsen clued him into "an old ice rink someone had in their backyard," from which "I acquired two of the three tarps I'm using as a liner.'

Dustin says, "Definitely the border and a liner make it a whole lot easier" to maintain the ice even when the weather warms.

He says his friend Tom "also helped out again for the netting currently protecting our siding from flying pucks, by donating an old pool leaf cover."

"It makes it worth it," Dustin says. "The kids come out and get the use out of it."

"It's our winter wonderland," adds Ashley. "Got to have something in the winter to make it go by."

turpentine, the 9 Big Boom taps deep into Glens Falls's heritage and pride. And Glens Falls Boom conveys power. It reverberates just to say it. It's an economic development tool, too. "Be part of the Glens Falls Boom," EDC Warren County can declare. 'Move your industry to Glens Falls!' Historians will be in demand. Inevitably people will ask, "So why are you called the Boom?' Well, let me tell you..

As a newspaper editor, I like Boom because it's short; a headline fits in large type in one-column width. The heading will shout:

"Boom wins big!" "No escaping the Boom."

should definitely become the Big Boom.

powerful and unique. Pulpers stands up to Spartans and Tigers.

Loggers or Lumberjacks are suggested alternatives, but they're not so much about Glens Falls as the forest beyond.

The Catheters, suggested my wife Hutch. I think she was kidding, but I appreciated her hat tip to another of our strong local industries — medical devices. The Glens Falls Crandalls, a salute to the entrepreneur and benefactor who gave us our library, our park, and left the rest of his fortune in a trust that continues — "to do the most good for the most people.'

The Glens Falls Cave could capitalize on Cooper's Cave, a cataract in the limestone made legendary in James Fenimore Cooper's novel Last of The Mohicans.

We could be the Glens Falls Falls, but it might confuse people and the fact of the matter is that the falls are seldom "on," because most of the water is shunted to a turbine to generate electricity.

Maybe we should consider the Glens Falls Power or the Glens Falls Dam. No, that might lead to some misuse. How about the Glens Falls Jimmer, celebrating Jimmer Fredette, who took us and himself from his family's little house on Ogden Street to the 2011 national College Basketball Player of the Year. Here's a good one: The Glens Falls Cool, like the Cool Insuring Arena. I like nicknames that are singular. Utah Jazz, Oklahoma Thunder. Miami has the Heat. Glens Falls will be Cool.

How about the Glens Falls Arrow? Glens Falls's own Arrow Financial Corporation is the parent of Glens Falls National and Saratoga National Banks. Maybe they a pay to sponsor the schools nickname. And we might be able to reuse some of the art from when we were Indians. We could be the Glens Falls Wings, a tribute to Abraham Wing who first settled the town. Here the sponsorship dollars might flow from The Bullpen, the sportsthemed, perennial wing contest-winner. How about The LOOK? We're always looking for a way to capitalize on having been LOOK magazine's Hometown USA in 1944. The Look works a lot better than the Hometownies?

Glens Falls Big Boom or Glens Falls Boom for short. It's a nickname that resonates in all kinds of way. My wife Hutch suggested it; this time she's hit the jackpot. Four miles upriver from Glens Falls, the Big Boom was where in the late 1800s as

Notes from the ARCC legislative panel with U.S. & NY legislators

By Cathy DeDe

Chronicle Managing Editor

A record 164 people sat in on the virtual Adirondack Regional Chamber of Commerce "Conversation with Your Legislators" Friday morning - nearly double the previous high of 86 attendees for an ARCC panel, Zoom president Mi-Rep. Stefanik, chael Bittel said. Panelists IY Senators the state and congressional Stec & Jorrepresentatives from the ARCC's dan; Assemservice area were Congressbly members Elise woman State Ashby, Simp-Stefanik. Senators Daphne Jordan and Dan son, Stec, and Assembly members

Jake Ashby, Matt Simpson and Carrie Woerner.

Woerner

The 90-minute discussion concluded with Mr. Bittel asking each legislator their priorities for 2021.

"Covid and the state budget," said Senator Dan Stec. "And we need to pull up to the table and become co-equal branches with the Governor," rescinding the emergency executive powers the state legislature granted at the start of the pandemic.

"Broadband, workforce development, telemedicine including payment parity, and Building Back Better," Assemblywom-an Carrie Woerner. "We need to strengthen local food supply lines, for example in the meat processing industry, to better meet the needs of our local communities."

"Number-one is making the legislature again a co-equal branch of state government," Senator Daphne Jordan said. "Once you do that, the other priorities will come to fruition.

"Also, getting vaccinations out to people." She noted a "discrepancy" of more than a million vaccine doses that have come to New York State but not been dispensed. "Broadband is also on the list."

Assemblyman Jake Ashby added, "Small business recovery, educating workers, making sure all voices are being heard, and that our Veterans are being served."

"Covid is the highest priority," Asssemblyman Matt Simpson said. "The state budget is another key priority, addressing the structural problems in the New York State budget process, sustainability and the number of regulations on business. The answer isn't reaching in deeper but supporting business to grow and build jobs.'

Mr. Bittel offered "the last word" to Rep. Elise Stefanik, who repeated, "Covid relief and funding for vaccines, and getting distribution improved." She added, "Long term needs include child care, safely opening the U.S.-Canadian border, and overall, offering the best constituent services."

Below are other questions and issues addressed by the panel.

PPP vs. tax bills

Small businesses that received Payroll Protection Program funds will still be allowed to deduct rent, payroll, utility and turns, Rep. Stefanik said, despite initial word from the IRS that seemed to indicate otherwise.

"This was the intent of the original PPP bill, but the Treasury Department did not follow-up up with this intent," a miscommunication that has since been fixed, Rep. Stefanik said.

She said businesses that received PPP $150,000 or less in the 2020 round will again be eligible in 2021, if they used the full amount allotted in 2020, and can show at least 25 percent reduction in receipts in the first, second or third quarter of 2020, compared to 2019.

She said 84 percent of the PPP funds granted locally were for $150,000 or less, and added that the application system for 2021 has been "simplified and streamlined.

The PPP brought $250 million into the district in 2020, and I anticipate we will see the same amount again," Rep. Stefanik said. She urged businesses with any questions to contact her office.

Restaurant jobs & unemployment tax

Sen. Jordan reported 2018-2019 figures from the National Restaurant Association showing 50,000 eating and drinking establishments in the state, generating approximately 865,000 jobs, which represented 9 percent of jobs in New York. With Covid restrictions, about 8,000 es-

A friend worth having

I am 8 years old, and I have known Owen M. for all 8 years, because our moms work together at Queensbury Elementary School.

I am such good friends with him because he is smart, kind, and when you're feeling sad he cheers you up. He really is a friend that's worth having.

He has brown hair and he loves sports. He is really good at sports, too. His favorite sports are baseball and basketball.

He is moving into a different house and it's a pretty nice house. They also have a pool.

He has a dog and three siblings named Ava, Olivia and Andrew. Owen's twin is Ava. Olivia is friends with my sister. And Andrew is the oldest. Owen is one of those friends that you know you can trust. His mom teaches A.I.S. and his dad is a banker. Owen is my best friend.

Pop at 99 years old

I'm known my Pop for 7 years. He just celebrated his 99th birthday. He is special to me because we share the same birthday month.

I got to see him graduate high school at 98 years old. He is a veteran who fought in World War II. I love Pop and his stories. I want to be like him.

Mason Queary Gr. 2, Mr. Springer Queensbury Elementary School

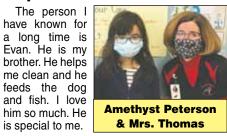

Time with mom

Someone I have known for a long tim is my mom. My mom's favorite color is red. I cook with my mom. I color with her. We snuggle in her bed. She takes me to school every day. We get Dunkin Donuts. I play cars with her. I always win. I love my mom.

Waiting for William

I have known my friend William for five years. Whenever William is going to come over I usually sit by the window. Mostly we would play with stuffed animals. We call them "stuffies." William and I live in the same neighborhood. It's totally awesome when William comes over! I like playing Minecraft with him because we build whatever! And that is someone I've known for a long time.

Vincent Janssen Gr. 3, Mrs. Edwards Queensbury Elementary School

New friend

Once in first grade I was playing with my friends Brady and Jace on scooters and bikes. Then a grey car pulled up. Then a kid pulled the door open, and his mom came out with him. He had glasses. I thought he looked funny. A few years later we are neighbors, and we play every day. We are almost like brothers.

These tents have been erected at Gurney Lane in Queensbury, uphill from the Warren Center health care residence. They're rumored to be planned Covid "mass-vac" (mass vaccination) sites. "The governor's office is in charge of that operation," replied Warren County Director of Public Affairs Don Lehman. He referred us to Colin Brennan in the Governor's office, who did phone back and said, "That site has been identified as a potential site." He emailed an updated statement that said, "As the Governor has stated on multiple occasions, New York is continuing to develop one of the most expansive vaccination networks in the nation, however the only thing standing in the way of administering more than 100,000 doses a day, is the federal government's supply of the vaccine.

Gurney Lane: Presumption is it's NYS Covid mass vaccination site

Still trying to untangle tale of vaccines

Chronicle Managing Editor Cathy DeDe writes: Several weeks into the Covid vaccine rollout, many people who are eligible here in the North Country tell us they are lost in a confusing landscape: Vaccines come available in small batches, arriving by several different routes including Warren County itself, local pharmacies, pritablishments in the state closed, and about 365,000 jobs were lost, she said.

Sen. Jordan cited efforts to be sure employers who terminated jobs because of Covid will not be "burdened" with the usual increase in unemployment taxes.

She also advocated a one-year extension on liquor licenses, and easing of other state fees on businesses.

Assemblywoman Woerner cited the unemployment insurance price, too.

"The trust fund has been emptied out," she said of state unemployment benefits. "In a normal situation, the business would pay a surcharge. Hitting businesses with a huge unemployment bill after make it through the winter would not be a step in the right direction."

Sen. Stec agreed: "We can't refill the un-mary care providers, and state-run sites an hour or more away in Albany, Utica, Plattsburgh or Potsdam.

It's a confusion borne of disparity between supply and demand.

Ginelle Jones, head of the Warren County Health Department, keeps a steady and reassuring tone: "In an ideal world, there would be enough for everyone. But that's not the case right now. When you get it in dribs and drabs, you try to prioritize the groups that are most at risk. We understand there is going to be frustration."

How many of us are eligible? "It is clearly in the thousands," County spokesperson employment bin by putting a negative experience rating on these small businesses."

Mr. Bittel chimed in: "Don't fine our businesses, please. We need relief and partnerships. Our state agencies should be serving businesses, and the public."

The NYS budget

Sen. Stec asked, "Where should funding be directed for the greatest impact?"

He said Governor Cuomo suggested two budgets — a $6 billion "drop dead" budget and $15 billion "hoped for," with federal support.

^{*}If we get that," Mr. Stec cautioned, "what I don't want to see is the state using the funds as status quo. I prefer to see it go directly to local municipalities and school districts" instead of into state coffers first

He said troubles with the state budget pre-date the pandemic. "We didn't get in this mess because of Covid. Covid made it worse. If we do receive funds, it will likely be a one-time shot from Washington. We can't be counting on that every year. We

Don Lehman says. "But that's about the best we can estimate. We estimated about 3,000 school personnel alone in Warren County. We have asked if NYS has any estimates but haven't heard back."

Meanwhile, vaccine doses arrive in counts sometimes as low as 100 in a week.

What's the best "tactic" to get in line? Mr. Lehman suggests, "We are working with a number of partner agencies that have been keeping tabs on those who want to be vaccinated, from employers to volunteer fire departments to organizations like our Warren County Office for the Aging. "We understand some pharmacies that need to fix the problems. That's what I would do if I was calling the shots."

Mr. Ashby added, "When taxes are raised, the money goes into the general fund and that often just goes into the ether. We don't know what happens with it."

Broadband, business

Assemblyman Simpson noted that the Covid-related migration out of New York City offers "a lot of opportunity" for the North Country, especially to attract people who can telecommute from anywhere.

"We need to tie in the expansion of Broadband with that message. Let people know what we offer, but we need connectivity to make it happen — in balance with the Adirondack Park and preserving our natural resources."

Rep. Stefanik said, "We have had tens of millions of dollars come to New York State related to expanding Broadband."

She said she had worked with the federal government to make New York eligible for Rural Digital Opportunity Funds that will bring $100 million to the region, including to Warrensburg, Willsboro and northern Saratoga County.

"What's getting in the way is the infrastructure," Ms. Woerner offered. With telephone poles "already in place bringing electricity to every household," she asked, "Why is it so hard and expensive" to tie in with Broadband?

She said, "The process of making the pole ready is cumbersome and expensive, and frankly, in New York State we've made a botch of it."

"It's not just money," Ms. Woerner said, adding, "that's important and thank you, Congresswoman....We need the regulatory process to be as streamlined and efficient as possible. We need not just a financial but a regulatory solution to make this rollout as successful as possible."

Mr. Stec agreed the "make-ready costs" are prohibitive. "We are our own worst enemies. The state puts $500 million into expanding Broadband, but turns around and lets the pole owners beat the beck out of us are getting vaccine are keeping waiting lists.

THE REAL PROPERTY OF THE PROPE

"We are also putting together plans for more outreach when the bulk of the general public becomes eligible.

"We have been recommending that residents get the first appointment they can, and if they are able to travel to places like Plattsburgh, Potsdam or Utica, they should take the proverbial bird in the hand."

He suggests the website www.am-i-eligible.covid19vaccine.health.ny.gov/, Warren County's hub at warrencountyny.gov, "and phone calls to pharmacies" as "the best course of action for our public."

Woerner faults national food delivery firms; touts 'Mealeo'

Assemblywoman Carrie Woerner urged support for local restaurants during the ARCC 'Conversations with Your Legislators."

She urged the state to continue to allow restaurants to sell takeout cocktails with food, and she called for capping delivery fees by third party Internet based services, that she suggests are "not doing a fair job."

Ms. Woerner praised the Lathambased order and delivery service "Mealeo" as a local provider "doing a great job" with a fee structure that is more favorable for restaurants.

emergency executive powers ceded to the Governor by the State Legislature at the start of the pandemic.

The order is scheduled to expire in April, but Mr. Stec expressed concern that the legislature will extend it. He said efforts by the Republican minority to rescind it have been ruled "not germane" by the Democratcontrolled legislature.

"I understand it's an emergency," Mr. Stec said of the Covid situation. "But the urgent nature is no longer here."

Mr. Stec also referenced State Attorney General Letitia James' report that Covidrelated deaths of nursing home patients in New York were greatly undercounted.

"That's an argument to say enough's enough," Mr. Stec said. "Time to return equal power to all branches of the government, and keep the executive branch in check."

Getting vaccines out

Rep. Stefanik said that although New York State's County Health Departments had plans in place for a vaccine rollout, "the Governor decided not to use these plans," leading to what she called "a challenging rollout.' Ms. Woerner added that counties are receiving just "40 percent" of vaccine doses the state said it is prepared to distribute," citing "a problem with supply from the federal government." She suggested a technology solution to distribution, offering individuals opportunity to register their interest and eligibility in a database that could send messages out when the vaccines became available. Mr. Woerner said, "That would take a lot of anxiety out of the process. We also need transparency. Lots of folks at every level are struggling. The anxiety level in communities is just rising. We've got to bring better solutions at all levels." "It's by far the number-one issue I'm getting calls about," said Mr. Simpson. "The rollout has been awful and it's difficult to get answers." Rep. Stefanik also urged a greater focus on reaching the developmentally disabled and also cancer patients, both vulnerable populations "that have been left behind."

financially."

He also cited the "fiber tax," a Department of Transportation surcharge for private providers to lay fiber optic cables along roadways. In rural communities, he said, that cost "makes it not feasible for them economically," to lay the cables and bring in Broadband.

"The tax is what's preventing it," Mr. Stec said. "We have met the enemy and he is us."

Covid & liability

Sen. Jordan urged amending labor law so businesses would not be held liable for transmission of Covid to customers or employees, emphasizing "so long as they act in good faith in trying to prevent it." Rep. Stefanik added, "The last thing we

Rep. Stefanik added, "The last thing we want is for small business to be facing endless lawsuits" over coronavirus.

"Unfortunately," she said, at the federal level, "these are not policies" Democratic leaders Nancy Pelosi and Chuck Schumer "would have supported."

GF City Hall reopens

Glens Falls City Hall has reopened to the public on a limited basis, Monday to Friday from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Visitors must check in at the welcome desk to answer some Covid-related questions. Masks and social distancing required.

All other hours, contact City departments by email, telephone, mail or through the drop box outside of the main entrance.

Noreen Dove retires; Megan Nolin is new GF Deputy City Clerk

Noreen Dove, longtime Glens Falls Deputy City Clerk, retired from her position last week, following 23 years of service to the Glens Falls community, said a press release from City Hall.

Ms. Dove was responsible for taking meeting minutes for the Common Council, Board of Public Safety and Recreation Commission, among others.

Mayor Dan Hall announced that he has appointed Megan Nolin, currently the city's Webmaster, as the new Deputy City Clerk.

"For 23 years, Noreen has been an integral part of our effort to keep the public

James Bonet of GF charged in Capitol invasion

James Bonet, 29, of Glens Falls has been charged with federal misdemeanors of knowingly entering or remaining in a restricted building and with Disorderly Conduct on Capitol Grounds in connection with the Jan. 6 "Stop the Steal" Trump rally claiming election fraud that ended with some rallygoers storming the Capitol.

Maximum potential penalty for unlawfully entering the building is up to a year in prison, a $100,000 fine and a year of probation. Possible penalty for the disorderly conduct charge is 6 months in prison, a $5,000 fine and a year of probation.

The statement of facts submitted to the U.S. District Court in Albany by an unnamed federal agent said unnamed Witness 1 [IT] has "mutual friends with BONET" and "provided...links to two videos on what IT claimed was BONET's Facebook account. The videos place the individual who recorded the videos on the Capitol grounds."

The agent said the witness said "some of the videos on BONET's Facebook account were deleted after posting, including one that shows BONET smoking what appears to be a marijuana cigarette inside the U.S. Capitol. Through legal process, your affiant has since confirmed that this Face-

Armed robbery at McCann Pharmacy ends in suspect Streicher's suicide

An armed robbery at McCann's Pharmacy in Hudson Falls on Thursday afternoon, Jan. 28, ended in the suicide in Queensbury of the suspect, Sheldon Streicher, 38, of Hudson Falls. No one at the pharmacy was harmed.

The Post-Star's Michael Goot wrote: "The incident began at 3:49 p.m....A man was seen entering the pharmacy wielding what appeared to be a rifle or shotgun. He then proceeded to rob store employees at gunpoint, demanding prescription medication, according to a news release from the Hudson Falls Police Department."

The New York State Police report said: "At approximately 3:53 p.m....law enforcement observed a vehicle wanted in connection with an armed robbery that took place at McCann's Pharmacy...The suspect vehicle was traveling north on State Route 4 in Hudson Falls.

"A preliminary investigation revealed that police attempted to stop the suspect vehicle with lights and sirens activated. When the vehicle failed to stop, a pursuit was initiated.

"The pursuit continued westbound on State Route 149 in Ft. Ann, before the suspect vehicle came to an abrupt stop in the area of Clements Road.

"Investigation shows law enforcement attempted to speak with the suspect as they approached the vehicle. Despite their efforts, the suspect took his own life, suffering from a self- inflicted gunshot wound. The suspect died at the scene.

"The deceased is identified as 38-yearold Sheldon R. Streicher of Hudson Falls."

An obituary through the Kilmer Funeral Home said in part:

"We are sad to announce that on January 28, 2021 we had to say goodbye to Shel-book page is registered to BONET ...

"Your affiant also obtained a cell phone screen-captured video recording through an initially anonymous submission to the FBI showing BONET's Facebook page from January 6, 2021....Follow-up investigation revealed that the screen-captured video recording was submitted by co-workers of BONET. On January 21...an FBI agent interviewed one co-worker...

"W-2 [Witness 2] reported that BONET is a shift manager of W-2's place of employment in Saratoga Springs, New York...W-2 relayed that BONET openly talks about government conspiracy theories at work and tries regularly to convince W-2 and ITs other co-workers to subscribe to those theories, including the conspiracy theory that the 2020 Presidential Election was "stolen."

The Post-Star said Mr. Bonet is a 2009 graduate of Queensbury High School and that he "said on Tuesday he believes he did nothing wrong, because, he said, he was let into the building by Capitol Police. He was smoking a tobacco cigarette, he said."
