Meanwhile in Vermont

By Mark Frost
 Chronicle Editor

After our plans fell through for an ambitious long weekend afar in mid-October, my wife Sandra rallied to book a short weekend nearby, in Dorset, Vermont.

Instead of driving five hours, we drove less than an hour.

Sandy, being Sandy, was able to find at the last minute a cottage as lodging, and dinner reservations for both Friday and Saturday at peak foliage when reservations anywhere were hard to come by.

On the drive over we made

Matt Rozell: Give OK to higher-power motorized e-bikes

Editor:

I read Cathy DeDe's article, "Should motorized e-bikes be allowed on county bikeway?" (10-7-21), and if you can spare the space, would like to comment. I am a 60-year-old 'retired' educator, and author of several books, the writing of which kind of requires long stretches of sedentary activity, which my doctor suggested may be as bad as smoking a pack of cigarettes a day. This year I gave myself some pres-

Brayden Dock, 15, qualifies for Augusta again: Drive, chip, putt National Finals

By Zander Frost
Chronicle Staff Writer

Brayden Dock, 15, is headed back to Augusta.

Next April 3, for the second straight year, the 10th grader at Glens Falls High School will compete in the Drive, Chip and Putt National Finals at Augusta National Golf Club, home of The Masters.

"I feel very honored to be able to even hit a golf ball at Augusta knowing that the best players in the world once hit there, and played there, and spent their time there," Brayden told The Chronicle.

Brayden qualified in the Boys 14-15 year old division by winning the TPC River Highlands regional qualifier in Connecticut. His father, Glens Falls High School teacher Jeffrey Dock, said Brayden had the most qualifying points of all 10 regionals in his age group.

Brayden said it's "going to be a little easier to prepare now that I know what it's like this year."

In April, Brayden said, "I came second. And I won the putting portion. I made the 15 footer. So I'll see if I can do that again."

The first time he qualified, Covid disrupted things. He had to wait from September 2019 "all the way to the beginning of April this year. So it was a long wait."

But, he said. "That extra year gave me time to adapt and feel a little more comfortable with my swing and my putting stroke...I also got a little bigger, I was able to hit a little further."

Before competing this past April, he trained at Anders Mattson's indoors golf facility in Saratoga Springs.

Is the competition intense? "It's a little stressful. The nerves are a-going," said Braden. "I just try to breathe, more than anything. I just take deep breaths and just try to do my best, I guess. I just try to think of it as another shot as if no one was watching."

Braden had plenty of practice in a jam packed summer. "Basically every week," he said. "I just packed a suitcase, I'd have my tournament, I'd come home for two days, pack another suitcase head out for another tournament."

"August was just packed with tournaments, all four weekends and into the week," he added. But now, "I don't have any other events that I know of unless I go down to Florida this winter."

Brayden said his favorite golfer is "Justin Thomas," though he adds, "I think I've had a different answer for even-

Virginia changes national politics; McDevitt loses in Qby.; some close races, surprises

By Mark Frost
Chronicle Editor

"All politics is local," Tip O'Neill famously said, but Republican Glenn Youngkin's victory Tuesday for governor of Virginia — and other strong GOP showings (including the still too- close-to-call New Jersey governor's race — will penetrate into political nooks and crannies here and everywhere.

Meanwhile, here are some local results — all unofficial, and incomplete, especially where write-in votes are key.

In Queensbury, the four Republican incumbent at-large county supervisors won re-election decisively, over Democratic challenger Brent McDevitt.

News & opinion

Mike Wild (REP, CON) - 3,478 - (22.25%)
Doug Beaty (REP, TQP) - 3,402 - (21.77%)
Brad Magowan (REP, TQP) - 3,389 - (21.68%)
Rachel Seeber (REP, TQP) - 3,240 - (20.73%)
Brent McDevitt (DEM, CON) - 2,030 - (12.99%)

For Queensbury Town Board, incumbent Republican Ward 1 Councilman Anthony Metivier (1,266 votes, 80.03%) overwhelmed John Kassebaum (312, 19.72%), but Ward 2 incumbent Democrat Harrison Freer (665 votes, 50.72%) only narrowly leads Republican Dave Deeb (646, 49.28%).

In Glens Falls, where most candidates including Mayor-elect Bill Collins ran unopposed, Republican Robert Landry (362 votes, 53.95%) led Democrat Robin Barkenhagen (308, 45.90%) erybody. At this point now, it's probably covered every golfer."

Brayden said when Thomas was young, "he was a shorter hitter and he'd always have to hit woods into greens on par fours and I was just the same way... and he also came up to me and congratulated me when we were there last year, so that was pretty cool."

What's next for Brayden's golf career? "I hope to perform well this upcoming summer [2022] in some bigger events like AJGA stuff and then from there hopefully get into a pretty good college, D1. And then potentially go pro, but we'll have to see. I've just got to keep on putting the work in and I'll see results."

His greatest accomplishment? "Before, I would say the Drive, Chip and Putt. But this year I did go undefeated in all of high school golf [for Glens Falls], which was pretty cool. And I guess it hasn't happened at my school before so I guess I broke a record for that. And I broke lowest average scoring record which was pretty cool."

"But it's kind of hard now because I just made it back to Augusta again," he added.

Brayden says he likes golf because, "each time you play it's different. You can go to the same course and every single time you play the same course, the same tees, it's always going to be different."

"You've always got to make par a different way, you're always going to make a birdie a different way. It's never the same."

Brayden already sounds like a pro, adding, "I've just got to thank the Drive, Chip, Putt organization and the Masters organization just to be able to put this event on for kids at a such a young age too, just to be able to experience what it's like to be on national television and play at the best level of golf. I think it's very, very cool that they're able to do this."

Counties: ‘Go green lighting for veterans’

The Warren County Board of Supervisors is taking part in “Operation Green Light,” a new statewide Association of Counties initiative, urging residents to turn exterior lights green to honor our servicemen and women during Veterans Day week, November 7 to 12.

It’s “an effort to show support for veterans of all military conflicts and raise awareness about the challenges faced by many veterans,” this year especially the veterans of conflicts in Iraq and Afghanistan, said press information.

The campaign also seeks to educate the public as to “the challenges faced by many veterans, and the resources that are available at the county, state and federal level” to assist them and their families.

Fort William Henry: Field of Flags & event

Again this year, the Fort William Henry will transform its west lawn into a “field” of more than 7,000 flags to honor veterans and activity duty military personnel.

A ceremony and musket salute will take place Veterans Day, Thursday, Nov. 11, at 11 a.m. — “the 11th hour of the 11th day of the 11th month” — marking Armistice Day, when World War I ended in 1918. That gave rise to Veterans Day.

Each flag is labeled with a service member or veteran’s name, branch of service and time of service.

SUNY Adk.: 11/12

SUNY Adirondack’s Veterans Day Ceremony returns after a year’s hiatus due to Covid, on Friday, Nov. 12, at 12:30 p.m. at the Veterans Memorial on campus, off Bay Road in Queensbury.

Color Guard: American Legion Post No. 533. Anne Wojtowecz, president of the college Veterans Club, will speak.

It’s free; donations accepted to benefit Operation Rolling for Resilience and The Veterans Yoga Project, said the press release. Info: 791-6575.

Year when oak & beech were the peak

Halloween Day photo, taken by Mark Frost Sunday on Glens Falls Mountain Road connecting Lake Luzerne and Queensbury.

Trevor DiMezza's Eagle Scout project benefits veterans

Trevor Reed DiMezza, 17, of Glens Falls scored Boy Scouting's highest achievement of Eagle Scout on March 2, 2021. An Eagle Scout Ceremony was held with his troop, family, and friends on October 2. His parents Michael and Stacie DiMezza provided details: Trevor is a member of Glens Falls Troop 6006 (sponsor organization: The Church of the Messiah), in the Turning Point District.

"Trevor's Eagle Scout project entailed the design, construction, and installation of a bookcase and 2 cubby storage units for the waiting area of the VA Clinic in Glens Falls.

"In addition to the furniture, Trevor conducted a book/puzzle/movie drive within his family, friends, Scouting troop and neighborhood.

"His goal was to fill the shelves with various forms of entertainment that our local veterans would be free to take home and enjoy. The actual furniture was installed in early September 2020, however, due to the pandemic, donations (which had been sorted, organized and stored in our garage) were not allowed to be displayed until June 2021.

"Since the shelves have been filled, we are delighted to report that the veterans have been enjoying all the donations. The VA Clinic has reported that Trevor's project has morphed into even more, as veterans and caregivers are not only enjoying the materials offered, but also bringing in additional items to donate for others to enjoy."

Meanwhile, in Vermont...

stops first at a roadside pie stand we happened upon (see photo at right) and at Mach's Market, the landmark building in Pawlet that has been in the Mach family since 1945. For quite a while it was closed — I feared the worst. But it turns out an enormous renovation was going on inside. It's reopened as a handsome, diverse, up-scale yet still real, local food market.

In Dorset, our last minute restaurant reservations were an early dinner Friday night at the Dorset Inn and another the next night at the cafe that's part of the Southern Vermont Art Center.

Both dinner spots are owned by the same entity — Church Street Hospitality — which we've found is both successful and controversial with some locals for how big it's become. It owns The Dorset Inn, Barrows House Inn, Dorset Rising Bakery, Lake House Pub & Grille on Lake Bomoseen, and more.

We found both restaurants we tried well run. Enjoyed our meals, and Leigh — our server at Dorset Inn — was unusually good, helpful, frank, engaging.

Did some hiking, too, of course.

Roadside pie stand

We saw this sign, drove in and discovered an unmanned stand for Butternut Bend Baking Co., in Wells. 3 homemade pies remained. $25 each. We bought the apple. Not cheap but very good — dense with the fruit. Am I right that New York State would prohibit this?

Hildene is open year-round

Hildene was the summer home of Robert Todd Lincoln (1843-1926), Abraham Lincoln's only child to survive to adulthood. No descendants of Abraham and Mary Todd Lincoln survive. Evocative and interesting in many ways, including the Pullman Railroad car added to the property. Robert was Pullman's attorney who became its president when founder George Pullman died. It became highly controversial when the black Pullman employees organized for higher wages and better working conditions. Robert Todd Lincoln — son of Abe — was faulted for their treatment. The guides are devoted and know their stuff. One gains insight into Abraham Lincoln. Are you a member of the Hyde Collection? Great benefit: Free admission to Hildene, as a reciprocal museum. Saves an adult the $23 admission!

Williams Store in Dorset: Amazing

H.N. Williams Store in Dorset was so low-key that we drove by it for years not realizing how extraordinary it is. A modernizing expansion, complete with gas pumps, has raised its profile. Founded by William Williams in 1836, the store is now in the sixth and seventh generation of Williams family ownership. I wish we had a store like this in Glens Falls. It has so much — from shirts, pants, hats, coats and boots to knives, hardware, animal feed and garden needs, to sandwiches, wine and cheese, to tons of Vermont-made goods — from Johnson woolen pants to Wilcox ice cream to goat leather gloves "made in Vermont since 1920." Astounding all the stuff they stock. It's a modern-day old-fashioned store, not a facade. Go see it. Tell them you read about it in The Chronicle.

Tried out The Luxury Box: Virtual golf, sports, more

By Zander Frost
Chronicle Staff Writer

The Luxury Box, a sports simulator and mobile entertainment business, is now open on Route 9 in Queensbury.

The Chronicle tried it out. What looks like a long building is actually a series of steel structures, each with a sports simulator setup inside — a large projector screen, sports simulator and equipment, plus recliner chairs.

Owner David Brindle said, “You can play golf, you can play baseball... hockey, you’ve got soccer, football, disc golf, bowling, and dodgeball.” He said you can also watch TV, sporting events and movies.

Mr. Brindle estimated the investment in a standard unit to be about $80,000, before furniture.

It’s located across from The Fun Spot, south of The Great Escape.

“It was just a wooded lot,” Mr. Brindle said. “We cleared the lot. And we own a steel company. So we’re the ones that manufactured the structures.”

His company, Dean Lally LLC, manufactures FireTrol Columns described as “prefabricated fire proof steel columns... utilized in educational facilities, hospitals, condominiums, parking garages, exhibition halls and community buildings.”

Mr. Brindle is from Rhode Island originally, then moved to Long Island, where his wife is from, before they moved to Queensbury.

The steel structures containing the sports simulators are “all portable,” said Mr. Brindle. “It sits on a trailer frame...it all just folds up. It’s eight and a half feet wide. This one would be 35 feet long. You just hook it up to your truck and you’re going to pull it out.”

The simulators track whatever sport you’re playing. You actually hit/kick/throw the ball directly towards the screen, which projects the results, simulated on a course or field. Afterwards, you retrieve whatever ball you launched and take your next turn.

Golf is the big selling point, said Mr. Brindle. “The golf is phenomenal. There’s nowhere around here that you’re going to get a better experience with golf. I mean, literally, we’ve got thousands of courses. We’ve got different games that you can play” in the self-contained units.

He said they have software that “allows anybody in the world to design courses... That’s why there’s so many courses.”

He said “you can’t use Augusta because of proprietary licensing reasons. But they have Augusta in here.”

The Chronicle’s group played golf first, on the Augusta knock off — which is called “Firethorn National.”

We had a bit of a learning curve for a group of admittedly mediocre golfers. It’s disorienting to pull out a driver and blast it into a screen in front of you — it feels unnatural at first.

We spent a few rounds in the water, but everyone had fun and we began to get the hang of it after a few holes.

We used the Luxury Box’s clubs, but they say the norm is for guests to bring their own.

The simulator has an optional “auto-putt” feature — at a certain distance from the hole, the shot counts regardless. It was useful to keep the pace up and avoid frustration.

Our highlight? Frisbee golf. We found it light and fun, and the tracking of tosses to be very accurate.

Soccer penalty kicks were a hit, too.

Afterwards, someone in our group texted, “A big plus is the variety of games that can be played. Most simulators like that are designed to be good at one thing.”

A standard room rents for $40 an hour, regardless of how many people use it. The larger “luxury” suite, which has an extra room with real-life games like pool, foosball and darts, rents for $90 an hour.

It’s touted for parties or a fantasy football draft.

Mr. Brindle said the recliners in the back of the room are ideal for watching movies, sports or TV on the big screen.

A $199 monthly membership allots 10 hours rental time each month, usable 24 hours a day. Otherwise they’re open from 9 a.m.-9 p.m., seven days a week.

Mr. Brindle said they have an in-depth simulator, specifically designed for golf

The Luxury Box is also touted for watching movies, sporting events, etc.

Diana Palmer of GF Common Council co-wrote Atlantic article

By Cathy DeDe
Chronicle Managing Editor

Glens Falls Ward 3 Common Council member Diana Palmer co-wrote a new article published in The Atlantic Magazine.

"The Second Amendment Has Become a Threat to the First," published on Oct. 27, is based on original research she did for her doctoral dissertation.

Dr. Palmer earned her Doctorate in Law and Public Policy this year from Northeastern University, in a hybrid program that combined virtual studies and in-person intensives several times a year. She defended her dissertation in June.

The article subhead says, "Firearms are having a documented chilling effect on free speech."

"What most people do not realize is that the Second Amendment has become, in recent years, a threat to the First Amendment. People cannot freely exercise their speech rights when they fear for their lives," the article says.

Dr. Palmer told The Chronicle, "I'm not taking a position on firearms, or the Second Amendment" — the right to bear teaching professionals. "You've got 3D visions of the person there, you could go all the way around, turn the person upside down — not that you would want to do that, but you can do it."

Mr. Brindle showed it off — after he drove the ball, the screen immediately showed an animated silhouette of him swinging, coupled with statistics about the swing, like ball velocity and angle.

He said they're planning an open house for golf pros to test out the equipment.

One of the rooms is an indoor putting green with overhead sensors that project onto the ground where you should hit the ball — or where you shouldn't have.

For example, as your ball is rolling, a line will follow it, showing its path. It will also replay your swing, so you can see exactly how you hit the ball.

The putting green also has games — like tic tac toe and beer pong. The "cups" are projected on the ground, and you try to putt the ball in. If the projector detects you hit a cup, it takes one away.

Mr. Brindle said the room is still being configured, so there were some technical difficulties.

He said the idea for The Luxury Box "was hatched back in 2004. I'm a big sports person. I saw that there were golf simulators. I was like, Oh, that's pretty neat. So I did some research into them."

"And then I just talked to some of the manufacturers and they all said, Oh, if we had a structure, or if the people had a bigger room, then we could sell more of these things. Like oh, well, there's a problem. So let's solve it."

arms. "My research was specifically on the impact of knowing guns would be present in a situation of protest in a constitutional democracy."

She says, "I had read a lot of articles on the topic of armed protest. Many reference the idea of guns having a chilling effect, but it was more a theory, without data. I was surprised nobody had conducted research on the subject."

Her co-author, Timothy Zick, is a William & Mary Law School professor, with a forthcoming book called Managed Dissent: The Law of Public Protest.

He had explicitly written about the lack of empirical data on the subject.

Dr. Palmer said she reached out to him with her research findings, resulting in this article, "which we thought would add value to the discussion."

Her dissertation was called "Fired Up or Shut Down: The Chilling Effect of Open Carry on First Amendment Expression at Public Protests."

Her findings were that respondents were less inclined to attend a public protest for a cause they felt strongly about if they knew guns could be present.

"The thing I think is really notable," Dr. Palmer says, "is this wasn't something found along partisan lines." She said the "chilling effect" held for "Republicans, Democrats, all sides of the spectrum and political views, even among gun owners, and from all areas of the country."

She surveyed more than 1,200 people across the country, including several open-ended questions to gauge responses.

The Atlantic article explains: "Participants were asked about their willingness to participate in protests in two groups. In the control group, firearms were not mentioned....In the experimental group, they were....The participants in the experimental group were much less willing to participate in expressive activities than participants in the control group to whom firearms were not mentioned."

The article concludes: "Across the board, people don't think it's a good idea to have guns at protests."

Dr. Palmer said, where political points of view did show up was in reasons people gave for their hesitance — fearing Antifa, and Black Lives Matter or the Proud Boys or Trump supporters, for example.

"There is still polarization, but the chilling effect goes across party lines," Dr. Palmer says.

"It's not just about the danger that people might get hurt. It's an important point to bring to the forefront of the conversation over guns in public, that there is a risk to people participating in democracy, by losing their voices."

Dr. Palmer notes that there the U.S. Supreme Court was poised to hear case on November 3, on how the Second Amendment applies to carrying guns in public.

Mr. Zick was interviewed on MSNBC after the article came out. Dr. Palmer said she was in a virtual "green room," but not called upon to speak. "But most of what he talked about was my research, because that's the part that's new."

She said she hopes her research — and more like it — is seen as relevant in such instances as the Supreme Court case.

Dr. Palmer is a marriage and family therapist at True North in Glens Falls. She ran unopposed on Nov. 2 for a second four-year term on the Common Council.

Dr. Diana Palmer earned her Doctorate in Law and Public Policy this year from Northeastern University.

SCHOOL VIEWS

In memory of Cynthia Frost

What is your favorite thing you did this summer?

Alexandru & Ms. Single

Surprise family outing

It all started when my family headed out the door. We all hopped in the car. Then we were off! When we left, everyone knew where we were going except me. The last time I had a surprise trip it did not turn out too well. "Wwwaaahhhh!" My sister had screamed. We were going to a place to swim but my sister wanted donuts, and she threw a scene. This time I hoped that did not happen. We were passing a field with some horses and of course my sister wanted to pet them. "No way," my mom said, and luckily we continued driving without a scene. Ten minutes later my dad said, "Here we are." I looked out the window, and what I saw was amazing. A Lake George sunset. "Thank you," I said.

The fair, and candy!

My favorite thing that I did last summer was I went to the Fair. I looked at all of the animals. I saw the truck pulls, demolition derby and the rodeo. I looked at some tractors. My mom said if I could do one chin up she'll get me some candy, and that was very easy. That's why the fair was my favorite part of last summer.

Worked with Dad

My favorite thing I did this summer is I went to work with my dad. I earned money to buy things for my dirt bike that I wanted. It felt good spending time with my dad, because he works so hard and he's busy.

for Mr. Collins's former Ward 2 Common Council seat. For the vacant Ward 4 Council seat, Democrat Ben Lapham (146 votes, 55.51%) defeated Republican Hank Pelton (117 votes, 44.49%).
For Ward 4's seat on the Warren County Board of Supervisors, incumbent Republican Dan Bruno (137 votes, 52.29%) saw a close race with Democrat John Reilly (125 votes, 47.71%).
Warrensburg: Incumbent Republican Supervisor Kevin Geraghty (436 votes, 49.04%) won the three-way race handily over former Republican Sheriff Bud York (276, 31.05%) and Democratic councilman Rich Larkin (177 votes, 19.91%).
Lake Luzerne: Supervisor Gene Merlino appeared to fall short in his write-in effort for re-election vs. Councilman Dan Waterhouse. Mr. Waterhouse got 430 votes (50.35%). There were 424 write-in votes (49.65%). Mr. Merlino presumably got most but perhaps not all of those.

Thurman: incumbent supervisor Susan Shepler (52 votes, 15.07%), running as an independent, was overwhelmed by Republican Debra Runyon (287, 83.19%).
In Moreau, incumbent Republican council members Kyle C. Noonan, Mark Stewart and Alan VanTassel all won, as did incumbent Highway Superintendent Paul Joseph.
In Kingsbury, incumbent Republicans Daniel W. Washburn (839 votes) and William H. Haessly (746) retained their seats over Democrat Jeffrey Zappieri (320).
In Argyle, Stacy Davis (334 votes) appeared to win the town justice post over Michael Stern (258).

ents, and I think I may be putting some years back on my life. I own four e-bikes, three of them Class or Type 3 models, yes, capable of helping the rider along up to speeds of 28 MPH, which some are suggesting should not be legal on a BIKE-way.

I live in the hill country of Washington County. I also own a Type 2 e-bike, capable of helping up to 20 MPH. Contrary to popular assumption, the e-bike rider does not just press a button, lace fingers behind the head and kick the feet up on the handlebars and cruise. You have to work hard, but in pedaling you get more miles for your workout. There is a difference when coming into these hills between the Type 2s and 3s; the fun is in gauging how to take the incline, working between shifting down and powering up each of the four levels, powering down again as you crest and shut off the motor on the downhill side.

I agree with Supervisor Dickinson's position that our speed isn't an issue. I have a son who puts 50+ miles a day on his regular racing bike who can blow past his old man on his ebike. The proposal for the outright banning of Type 3s is inordinate and stupid. This isn't New York City, and the cohort purchasing and riding this type is not going to ramp it up and run down pedestrians (go out and try pricing a Type 3, if you can even find one now).

To the business owner who wants to use the Bikeway for his rental market, who recommends Type 3s be outlawed—I'll suggest you don't rent Type 3s to your potential customers, if that is a real concern. Don't go after me, the user who spends a TON of money in Warren County and tons more to New York State.

18 Warren County septic law public hearings

The Warren County Board of Supervisors will hold two public hearings to gather public comment on a proposed law requiring inspection of septic systems when properties near certain waterways are sold or transferred:

Nov. 17, at 7 p.m. at the Lake George Town Hall and Nov. 19, at 10 a.m. at the Warren County Municipal Center at the Board of Supervisors meeting.

“Protection of our waterways is a vitally important issue for all residents of and visitors to Warren County,” Rachel Seerber, Chairwoman of the Warren County Board of Supervisors was quoted. “And this proposed septic inspection law will take great strides toward improving oversight of potentially problematic septic systems.”

“But we also want to make sure that all stakeholders who would be affected have a chance to weigh in on this proposal...”
