Holi-Daze!

By Cathy DeDe
 Chronicle Managing Editor

This Friday Glens Falls has its Hometown Holidays and tree lighting.

It also kicks off the three-day European style "Christ-kindmarkt" in City Park.

Frenzy of communi-ty holiday events

Christmas in Warrensburgh returns after a Covid year hiatus, and it's huge!

Hudson Falls, Queensbury, Corinth, Cambridge, North Creek and others have tree lightings and festivals this week. Santa Claus will be incredibly busy given all the places he's booked to appear.

See pages 2 and 4 for some details — plus The Chronicle calendar of events.

DeNatale's Italian restaurant opens in HF

By Mark Frost & Zander Frost
 Chronicle Editor & Staff Writer

A Queensbury couple with a combined 70 years in the restaurant business has opened DeNatale's — serving traditional Italian and "Tuscan peasant" style cuisine — in Hudson Falls.

Kevin Golonka and Theresa Harwood-DeNatale transformed an empty room into a show-place in the Masonic building that Hudson Falls attorney Bill Nikas is reviving as the Sandy Hill Arts Center.

It's located next-door to and just to the north of the Strand Theatre — also recently revived.

The menu ranges from pizza and homemade soup to classics

Re 'Kingsbury gun rights fight': State has the authority to put limit on guns

To the Editor:

Re: Kingsbury's gun rights fight (Nov. 24 Chronicle).

The drafters of the Second Amendment unambiguously assert that its purpose is "the security of a free State." It is elementary that nothing is more fundamental to the security of a free State than law and order. That the free State furthermore has the authority

Chapman curator: Thanks for history of GF movies review; two corrections

Hello Mark,

I just wanted to say how much I appreciate the wonderful review of the "Now Showing" exhibit! I can't tell you how happy it makes me when people find the exhibits to be a meaningful way to connect with our past. History can be a tough sell these days, but I don't believe it has to be. I'm always looking for

Glens Falls Home-town Holiday!

Glens Falls' Hometown Holiday celebration opens Friday, Dec. 3, the annual tree lighting by Mayor Dan Hall and Santa Claus Tree at 5:30 p.m.

The evening continues with excerpts from the Adirondack Ballet Theater Nut-cracker in front of the Wood Theater, Bolton Dance School at J. Reid Menswear, Sax-o-Claus the roaming sax-playing Santa and his elf, horse-drawn wagon rides, children's activities by World Awareness Children's Museum, face painting (COVID dependent) or temporary tattoos for kids, a mailbox to drop letters for Santa, and more.

Info: www.glensfallscollaborative.com. These festivities are in partnership with the Glens Falls Collaborative, City of Glens Falls, and the Glens Falls BID.

New! Christkindlmarkt (pronounced "Chris-kinde-mart") is an old European-style fair of local crafters, artisans and businesses, with live entertainment and children's activities, held under heated tents in City Park for three days: Friday, Dec. 3, from 4 to 8 p.m.; Saturday, Dec. 4, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.; and Sunday, Dec. 5, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

LARAC moves its annual Fall festival to the Queensbury Hotel, with displays and sales by more than 30 artists and fine crafters selected by jury, on Sunday, Dec. 5 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Admission is free. The LARAC Gallery, located across City Park from the Queensbury, continues its holiday shop and sale through December.

Shirt Factory 'Pop-up'

The Shirt Factory, located on Lawrence and Cooper Streets in Glens Falls, offers a "Friends and Family Pop Up Sale," on Saturday, Dec. 4, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Featured: Overflow artists and artisans who applied for the Shirt Factory's big sale weekends, Nov. 26-28 and upcoming on Dec. 11-12. Info: 502-1450 or online at www.shirtfactorygf.com.

Christmas in Wbg., Dec. 4-5, goes big!

Christmas in Warrensburgh returns for its 33rd year, Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 4 and 5. The theme is "Believe!"

New this year: Massive Indoor Holiday Market & Artisan Fair, Saturday 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the historic Shirt Factory Building at River Street Plaza. Dozens of artisans, artists, crafters, local distilleries and wineries, food producers and non-profit groups are scheduled.

Christmas tree lighting ceremony, Saturday at 6, including music and caroling by Warrensburgh Elementary Band, tree decorating by local Girl Scouts, trumpet solo by Pastor Aaron Spoonhour of First Baptist Church, arrival of Santa, and refreshments. Free movies and popcorn at the First Baptist Church following the tree lighting. Info: 466-5497, tawhalen@yahoo.com, or on Facebook.

Most events are on Saturday: Toyland with Santa, Petting Zoo, wooden toy making workshops and more • Free horse-drawn carriage rides • Pet photos with Santa • Entertainment by Courtney Music Unlimited • Strolling Charles Dickens Carolers led by James Corriveau

Also: Breakfasts with Santa • U.S. Postal Service Special Holiday Cancellation & Letters to Santa • Church Bazaars, luncheons and cookie walks • Open Houses at local businesses • Decorate a gingerbread house • Children's crafts and face paintings • Artisan demos • Book signings • Wine and craft spirit tastings.

Sunday: Breakfast with Santa, 9-11 a.m. at Tommy Guns Pizzeria • Heavenly Metal Hand Bell Choir, 2 p.m. at St. Cecilia's Church.

Both Saturday and Sunday: "Dressed for the Holidays" exhibit at the Warrensburgh History Museum.

Remembering Carol Gregson

This year's celebration is dedicated to Carol Gregson of Pottersville, who passed away this fall. Carol belonged to Serendipity Spinners, at this event since 1989, wrote organizer Teresa Whalen. She calls Carol "a legacy to the true spirit of the Adirondacks."

Qby: Candy Cane Lane at SUNY Adk

The Town of Queensbury pivots its annual holiday children's festival to a drive-through "Candy Cane Lane" through the SUNY Adirondack campus on Friday, Dec. 3, beginning at 6 p.m. Info: www.queensbury.net or 761-8200.

LG school topics: Warrior image & ‘Diversity, Equity & Inclusion’

By Cathy DeDe
Chronicle Managing Editor

Two issues at the Lake George School Board meeting in November — its traditional Warrior imagery, and plans to address “DEI,” or Diversity Equity and Inclusion, in the district — brought out heated if politely worded comments from the public. It reached Warren County, too, where two speakers waited through the lengthy November Board of Supervisors meeting in order to alert the Supervisors of their concerns during Public Comments.

Board: Need to talk about it; some commenters suggest hidden agenda

Image of the Warrior

The School Board passed a resolution on Nov. 9, designating the Native American head as a “heritage image” for the district. Pressed several times to explain the term, Board president Tricia Biles said, “It is honoring the fact that the Warrior symbol is part of our identity and part of our pride...to make clear that we are not promoting cancel culture and...that this is an understood piece of pride and identity for our community.”

The resolution says, “The designation does not cancel anything or require any immediate changes, opens the discussion, allowing for community inquiry and education.”

A board member added, “The board is handing that discussion to the people of the district. That is our intent.”

Another said, “The designation protects and respects our identity and creates space for an educational opportunity, seeking a common language.”

Board president Mrs. Biles said, “Folks have been hesitant to talk about it. As a heritage image, the Native American head is part of Lake George now, a symbol of pride. We have an important educational responsibility to talk about it, to understand the nuances of that and what is actually done with it.”

Diversity, Equity, Inclusion

Separately, the School Board’s Policy Committee chair Maryanne MacKenzie said the district is in the early stages of

Dana Hogan: Opt out for now on marijuana in Kingsbury; eye later referendum

By Zander Frost
Chronicle Staff Writer

"I'm leaning towards opting out only in the sense that I think it gives us more future flexibility," Kingsbury Town Supervisor Dana Hogan told The Chronicle regarding the state marijuana opt-out deadline coming up on Dec. 31.

"If we don't opt out by December 31, 2021, we no longer as a community have the option to opt out in the future," Mr. Hogan said. "But you may opt out prior to 12/31, and then ultimately opt back in."

He said the Kingsbury town board is looking to offer it up as a referendum to the community. Otherwise, "you're essentially allowing five council members to make a decision that's going to impact this community for the rest of days."

"I would prefer to give us some time and flexibility to let the community weigh in on it," Mr. Hogan said.

The New York State Office of Cannabis Management says "to opt-out of allowing adult-use cannabis retail dispensaries or on-site consumption licenses, a municipality must pass a local law by December 31, 2021..."

"Municipalities cannot opt-out of adult-use legalization," the state office adds. Cannabis possession and use by adults over age 21 is legal in New York State.

Moreau town board open to marijuana sale, balks at its use on-site at bars, etc.

Chronicle staff writer Zander Frost reports: "No decision has been made" on whether to authorize or forbid marijuana dispensaries in Moreau, Town Supervisor Todd Kusnierz told The Chronicle.

He expects it to be discussed at the Town Board meeting, Dec. 14 at 7 p.m.

Dec. 31 is the deadline set by New York State to opt out of allowing sales. Otherwise it's allowed permanently. Towns can opt in later if they opt out initially.

Participating municipalities receive tax revenue from marijuana sales.

The majority of the board is receptive to allowing it, Chronicle interviews indicate.

"It's legal, I don't have a problem with it," said Councilman John Donohue.

"One thing I don't like is they're going to have bars or...consumption stations. I'm not a big fan of that. But as far as legal sales, I don't have a problem with it."

Mr. Donohue said, "People with substance abuse problems — that isn't the substance that's the problem. I know. I'm a recovering alcoholic. Alcohol is not the problem. JD [John Donohue himself] is."

Councilman Kyle Noonan said, "I would support dispensaries in the town of Moreau...I would not support on site consumption."

He said he has no personal affinity for cannabis. "Most people laugh at me when I tell them this: I've never smoked weed in my entire life. A lot of people are like, 'Ha! You sound like Bill Clinton!'"

Mr. Noonan said, "But I do not want to pass up on an opportunity that most of our neighboring towns that we share borders with are going to take advantage of."

On the issue, "It's 50/50 what I hear from residents," Mr. Noonan said.

He added, "I hate the smell in public. I absolutely abhor it. I don't think it's right."

Councilman Alan Van Tassel said, "I'm not going to be in support of opting out. I don't believe that's the direction we're headed.” He said, “I need to do a whole lot more study, analysis of on-site consumption, specifically around other communities around the country that have done that and what the positive or negative impacts of that.” Incoming Councilman Mark Stewart, who takes office Jan. 1, told The Chronicle he plans to look into it further “before the first of the year here.”

Cerrone eyes Moreau industrial park for growing marijuana

Cerrone Builders initially planned a commercial marijuana growing facility on Route 9 in the Town of Moreau, Supervisor Todd Kusnierz tells The Chronicle, but “our zoning administrator determined that it did not meet code.” Now, he said, Cerrone is considering purchasing a lot in the Moreau Industrial park for their marijuana plant. Mr. Kusnierz said it “is permitted in the industrial park, and I think that’s an ideal location for that type of facility. And I’m supportive of their application should it get before the planning board.”

Strength: From the bottom up

By Mark Frost
Chronicle Editor

Juries got it right, as I see it.

Acquitted Kyle Rittenhouse in Kenosha. He clearly didn’t commit murder as charged, even if you fault him for having gone to the riot scene armed.

Convicted the three defendants in the Ahmaud Arbery killing in Georgia. What happened there was heinous and homicide.

Most important, juries of ordinary citizens did their job conscientiously. The Rittenhouse jury deliberated for days — and wasn’t swayed by an onslaught from the President on down and a virtual call to riot.

I believe in the grass roots strength and decency of everyday Americans. I think the nation’s salvation — if there is to be one — will percolate from the bottom-up, not from (and maybe in defiance of) the top-down.

A truck driver from Lewis County will challenge Elise Stefanik for the Republican nomination for Congress in 2022, wrote The Times-Union’s Chris Churchill in his Tuesday column.

“On Monday,” he wrote, “Lonny Koons was picking up candles in Massachusetts to deliver them to Wal-Mart stores. It’s the kind of work, he said, that many politicians don’t understand.”

Churchill notes that Republicans Texas Senator Ted Cruz “is a Princeton and Harvard educated lawyer married to a Goldman Sachs executive,” Florida Gov. Ron DeSantis “went to Yale and Harvard Law School,” and Rep. Stefanik went to Harvard. He also points out that Mr. Koons spent 20 years in the Army.

Mr. Churchill further notes that it was truck driver Ed Durr who last month, in a long-shot bid, ousted New Jersey’s Senate president Steve Sweeney.

Is in Elise in trouble? I doubt it but one never knows.

A little more about our dogs

Chronicle editor Mark Frost writes: In our Nov. 11 edition, I wrote about the death of Zoe, our beloved Wheaten Terrier.

I’m not surprised at the seemingly infinite compassion that has come our way, from readers and from friends and family. A friend in Queensbury surprised us this week with the Zoe ornament shown here.

People I don’t even know — a docent at the Hyde Collection, for example — send such kind sympathy cards.

Zoe’s younger sister Maggie and I were out walking Monday morning and came upon the Glens Falls DPW picking up leaves. Out of his dump truck stepped City worker P.J. to express condolences on our loss — and also to convey the sad news that his Wheaten Terrier had also passed at the age of 13, close to Zoe’s 13 1/2. They battled the same life-long afflictions, like chronic skin ailments. P.J. and I talked years ago about our mutual passion for our Wheatens. Monday, we shared the understanding that losing a dog isn’t “like a death in the family.” It is a death in the family.

A friend surprised us with an ornament memorializing Zoe.

An unknown to me was what the impact would be on surviving sister Maggie.

For the first three days, she was in a state of shock. Then she perked up a little bit. But it didn’t last long. Now she’s often forlorn. She’s realizing she’s got no runningmate in the snow, nobody to tug of war with over their stuffed toys.

Last night, watching the University of Virginia men’s basketball game on TV, it occurred to me after a while to ask, “Where’s Maggie?”

She’s always been a thoroughly sociable dog. She assumes every human must love her. In the house, if she didn’t see one of us, after a while she’d make the rounds, look into the study while I was working on the computer, just checking in.

Monday evening there was no trace of her downstairs. I went upstairs and there was Maggie on our bed, all by herself, nothing to gear her up.

I take her walking and hiking more now than ever (I used to have a guilty conscience taking her when Zoe could no longer go with us). Sandy brought Maggie to the office one day, and I did, too, during the weekend.

Maggie is top of mind for our whole clan.

I welcome advice on helping her cope and thrive.

Maggie does a lot of lying around lately, really misses big sister.

like lasagna, chicken marsala and pastas plus house specialties such as Country Style Rigatoni ($19.95) with sausage, broccoli, onions, garlic and cannellini beans in light broth with parmesan cheese, and Zesty Zucca Rustica ($16.95) — Spaghetti Squash tossed with sausage, tomatoes, peppers, onion, garlic and cheese in a rustic tomato sauce.

Kevin says of the menu, "There's some stuff on there that probably 30%, 40% of it that you will not see in other places."

Theresa calls Kevin's Chicken Parme-

san ($18.95) "out of this world. It's not from a patty, he hand breads it, hand trims the chicken."

She also touts the Chicken Scarpello ($21.95), a "spicy chicken dish with a white sauce. And we've had a great response to our Seafood Fra Diavolo" ($23.95), Shrimp and Scallops in a "zesty red sauce" over linguini, says the menu.

The extensive bar has 10 beers on tap, "from pilsners to stouts," says Theresa, including several craft locals, plus Downeast hard cider and Truly seltzer. "The Downeast is unbelievable. We use it to make a caramel apple drink," she says.

The changing dessert menu offered in its first week included tiramisu cake, Italian lemon cream cake and a Chocolate Brandied Amaretto Mousse.

Generations in the restaurant biz

Kevin's restaurant roots run generations. "My father owned like six different places," he said. "Sandpiper in Watervliet. Otto's on Latham Circle was my grandfather, Otto...The Rusty Nail in Clifton Park, and the Study and Lounge."

Theresa adds, "His dad actually built the Rusty Nail, built the building."

"I'm originally from Latham," Kevin says. "But I've been living up in this area since the early 80's."

Theresa says, "I met Kevin when I was 18 at his family, his dad's restaurant," Peabody's on Lake George.

"He grew up in the restaurant business and I was in the restaurant business for a long, long time until 2008. I'm a registered nurse. And I've always wanted to do this," Theresa said.

She notes, "I'm from Hartford originally. My grandfather was Floyd [Harwood], so I have a soft spot for Washington County." Hartford's Elementary School is named for the late Mr. Harwood, a teacher who created the vast, fondly remembered Log Village Grist Mill Museum.

DeNatale's opens in HF

Theresa's brother Mark Harwood operates The Bog Tavern, also in Washington County, in Cambridge.

Kevin said, "We don't have a ton of fried food. We're making pizzas. Some unusual ones." The 12-inch pizzas include the familiar — cheese, $14.95, and margherita or meatlovers, $15.95 — but also Spinach and Artichoke ($17.95) and The Figaro ($18.95), that Theresa says is a Fig Pizza with Bacon that is "sweet but salty. People love that pizza."

"Kevin's gotten really good at the crusts," she adds.

Kevin says the rigatoni with sausage and broccoli is "a country peasant...dish" whose recipe comes from a "famous restaurant" in New York City now closed.

Theresa elaborates, it's "a little broccoli with a light sauce, not a creamy sauce, a really light sauce. With cannellini beans."

The signature spaghetti squash dish — "it's almost like a twice baked potato but it's got vegetables and tomato sauce and sausage," Theresa said.

She says, "I'm one of these foodies — I'll go to one place, because I want that. And we're going to try to do some of that here."

Kevin said, "We know from experience that we would travel to someplace even out in the boonies...."

"To have one thing that we liked on the menu," Theresa completed the thought.

DeNatale's is situated at the rear of its building, on its northeast corner. Do they have qualms about being in the back of instead of the front? "Nope, not even one. There's a new parking lot it's got 102, 101 spaces over there, free municipal parking lot. Is it harder to be seen? Maybe a little, but we're hoping that our food will — people will talk."

See whole block as a destination

Theresa said they see the whole Hudson Falls block as "a destination. We'll have this, the Strand, we'll have Mullen's," referring to the former Maxwell's Pub, next-door to the south of the Strand.

"We want to rock the block," Theresa said. "I grew up in East Hartford and I remember when Salutos was — we did all of our family gatherings there because the prime rib was really good and the pasta was really good."

"We're tickled about Triad's [music store] moving in. It's gotten to be kind of music and artsy on this corner of Hudson Falls and I'm excited about it."

"It seems like there's a lot of traffic, Jonathan [Newell] is doing a great, great job with The Strand, and Scott [Boucher] is doing a great job with his food [at Mullen's]. We'll serve different stuff than he does. So I think it will complement each other."

DeNatale's door opens on to the walkway into the Strand's stage entrance.

"We get to meet all the bands when they go in the Strand," Kevin said.

"We're going to keep a couple of guitars here...So if a band member happens to walk in and they want to sign it," Theresa said.

DeNatale's is situated at the rear of the former Masonic building in Hudson Falls that Bill Nikas is redeveloping as the Sandy Hill Arts Center.

Bill Nikas approached them

Kevin said his career has included a stint at The Montcalm in Queensbury and being general manager of a Cracker Barrel. He said his last job was at a senior living center, until Bill Nikas, who owns the Masonic building, approached him at Jim Gallagher's recommendation.

Theresa says Bill told them, "I heard you two could run a good restaurant." And I went, 'Oh, I don't think we're interested. But we'll look.'"

"It was pre-COVID, actually. So there was no qualms about the pandemic — just with restaurant businesses. It's seven days a week," she added.

Kevin says, "I told my kids point blank; you don't want to be in this business, even though that's what I do."

"You're married to it," said Theresa.

Initially they looked at the former County Courthouse building two blocks to the south, but "we weren't crazy about how it was cut up. And the parking I think was a concern for us," Theresa said.

"And [Bill] said, 'Oh, yeah, this other building but there's nothing in it.'"

"And it's horrible!" Kevin laughed.

But once they walked through the door, "we saw the potential."

"The bar wasn't here. The ceilings were out..." Theresa said. "It was in pretty rough shape. The floors weren't there... the front of the bar [they've built and that Kevin designed] is repurposed out of the ceiling."

Covid set them way back. "We had planned to be open a long, long time ago," says Theresa. "Thank goodness Bill, he was fabulous to us. He held this place and we couldn't have done it without this teamwork."

DeNatale's opened on the day after Thanksgiving and the couple said they're feeling their way along.

"Our original plan was to be open lunch and dinner, seven days. That was our plan pre-COVID, pre-people not wanting to work, pre-not being able to get food, all those things," says Theresa.

They're staffed, but "we're always ac-

Karen Gerstenzang Meltzer, Brant Lake, NY

The world has lost one of its wisest, most generous, and dignified women.

On November 18th, 2021, Karen Gerstenzang Meltzer passed away peacefully in her favorite spot overlooking her beloved Brant Lake with family and friends by her side. She was 86 years old.

Karen was a devoted wife to her husband of 62 years, Laurence Meltzer, loving mother to Lorayne Meltzer (married to Ed Boyer) and Robert B. Meltzer, and loving grandmother of Merrin, Brock and Marlee Meltzer, and Dylan and Maya Barnes.

Born in New York City in 1935 to Robert and Patricia Brock Gerstenzang, she was a graduate of Fieldston High School and Scripps College.

Karen was a Director of Brant Lake Camp beginning in 1962, the camp her father founded in 1916, where she will always be loved and remembered for her grace, kindness, and dedication to the camp.

She was deeply respected for her contributions to the camping community. She was involved in NY State camp director activities such as President of New York State Camp Directors Association, Vice President of New York State chapter of the American Camping Association, and President of Camp Vacamas. Later she was more involved in Adirondack activities including membership on the Board of Directors of the Adirondack Council, Adirondack Experience, and the Brant Lake Association.

Those who knew her well, and there are many, know that she lived to make other people's lives more wonderful. The world is simply a better place because she was in it. Karen will be missed by all who knew her.

In lieu of flowers, The Meltzer Family prefers that you contribute to the following charities that Karen loved and supported throughout her life:

Covid round-up

State reopens vaccine site at Aviation Mall

Governor Kathy Hochul said Monday that the state mass vaccination site at Aviation Mall in Queensbury would reopen as of Wednesday, Dec. 1, "to combat the rising COVID-19 infection rate in the area."

The site will also do COVID-19 testing. Warren County said Tuesday, "The Queensbury site will be open each day from 8:00 a.m. until 7:00 p.m."

"The site will be open Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays for testing, and Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays for vaccinations."

Appointments for vaccinations can be made at https://am-i-eligible.covid19vaccine.health.ny.gov/#\_blank.

Walk-in appointments will also be available.

Vaccination effort for kids, Dec. 3: HF School

Washington County Public Health said Tuesday it is "proud to announce we will be kicking off our COVID-19 vaccination efforts for the 5-11 age group and including additional efforts to vaccinate...youth in the 12-17 age range this Friday, December 3rd from 3:30-7:30 PM at the Hudson Falls Central School Auditorium (Main Entrance - 80 East LaBarge St, Hudson Falls)!"

It said, "A parent or legal guardian must accompany all youth in order to be vaccinated" and that the event will use the Pfizer COVID-19 vaccine.

"Registration is required and can be completed by using the age specific link on our Coronavirus Information site at washingtontcountyny.gov/coronavirus..."

"Bring Identification (or proof of age for age eligible youth)"

"Wear a Short Sleeve Shirt"

"Plan to stay at least 15 minutes following vaccination for monitoring."

Gov. Hochul declares emergency over new Covid variant; could curtail elective surgery

New York Governor Kathy Hochul reacted to the new Omicron Covid variant from southern Africa by declaring a State of Emergency that affects hospitals.

Based on bed availability, hospitals might have to stop performing elective surgery under state Department of Health rules. Glens Falls Hospital, Saratoga Hospital and their parent Albany Medical Center were all included on a list of hospitals possibly affected.

The Chronicle asked Ray Agnew, Glens Falls Hospital's Vice President, Hospital & Community Engagement, about it.

Mr. Agnew said, "We have received no cepting applications," Theresa said. They're especially seeking a line cook.

DeNatale's is open Wednesday through Sunday at 4 p.m., until 9 on weekdays, later on Friday and Saturday. Closed Monday and Tuesday.

"We're taking limited reservations," Theresa said. Phone: 518-409-8187. DeNatale's is also on Facebook.

Theresa said they're getting requests for take-out. "We will we will try to accommodate that," she said, but cautions "we're kind of feeling our way."

to maintain law and order is inherent in the Amendment’s requirement that its “Militia” is to be “well-regulated.”
In short, the authority of the state to regulate the possession of arms in furtherance of law and order is clearly established under the Second Amendment. This authority is borne out throughout American history.
A telling example of a constitutional exercise of this authority is found in no less a lawless place and time than the old “wild west.” There and then, for example, when Wyatt Earp and Bat Masterson wanted to stop the cowboys from shooting up Dodge City, they took the cowboys’ guns away.
Any challenge to such a constitutional exercise of authority was met, not with an appeal to the Supreme Court, but with the butt, if not the barrel, of the marshal’s gun.
Security is not just the privilege of the rich, like Donald Trump, who professes his love of the Second Amendment and all things NRA while at the same time denying visitors to his private golf clubs or the attendees at his rallies the right to bear and bring their AR-15s or Glock 9mms. Security is the privilege of all members of a free State, in their homes, in their schools, in their marketplaces, and places of employment and worship, and especially in those public places where their opinions are to be heard in free and open debate.

further guidance from NY State DOH at this time. Restricting elective procedures does little to create capacity at our hospital as the majority of cases do not require an inpatient stay and, in many cases, delays patients in receiving needed care.”
The Wall Street Journal faulted Gov. Hochul’s declaration, terming it “The Omicron Non-Emergency” and said, “The real cause of the ‘disaster’ is her mandate requiring that healthcare workers be vaccinated. Many hospitals, especially in up-state rural areas, were already short of staff. Now those... stretched will have to postpone elective procedures...a crucial source of hospital revenue.”

well. The year that the Park Theatre opened was actually 1911, December 23 to be exact. I checked the text label and realized that although I had put the 1911 opening date in the body of the text, the title at the top stated 1912, because the photograph that accompanies it was taken in 1912. I understand now that this can easily be a source of confusion. When I return to the museum on Tuesday, I will remedy this by making two separate labels.
At the same time, I will also correct my error of Jerry Aratare’s name!

I must have accidentally mounted an older version of this label which had his name as Joe. (For some reason, I have a mental lapse and always want to say Joe Aratare. I have no idea why!) Thank you for bringing these things to my attention! I do my best but inevitably a thing or two slips through.
Again, I’m grateful for the positive and kind words regarding the show. This sort of exposure is invaluable to the museum, as is your support.

Werner Feibes, 92, $10 million Hyde art donor

Chronicle Managing Editor Cathy DeDe writes: Werner Feibes, the Schenectady architect who with his husband James Schmitt donated their extensive modern art collection to the Hyde Collection, passed away from Alzheimer's disease on September 16, in Louisville, Kentucky.

On Nov. 21, several Hyde members attended the graveside service in Schenectady, director Norman Dascher tells The Chronicle. He and curator Jonathan Canning were among those who spoke.

Mr. Feibes was predeceased by Mr. Schmitt, his partner in life, art collecting, and in their architectural firm.

In addition to the art collection, valued at the time around $9 million, Mr. Feibes donated $1 million to the Hyde for creation of the Feibes-Schmitt Gallery that is dedicated to Modern and Contemporary art. The $10 million gift was hailed as "transformative."

"He was remarkably kind and generous and ahead of his time as a collector," Mr. Dascher said. With the Hyde gift, "He planted the seed and we are growing it."

Carol Gregson, 95: An original; humorist, more: 'The Pottersville Complainer'

Chronicle Managing Editor Cathy DeDe writes: The Adirondack community has lost a stalwart in Carol Gregson, who passed away on Friday, Nov. 12. She would have been 96 on December 2.

I met Carol as "The Pottersville Complainer" — a stand-up, down-home, dry-witted humorist. She wrote two books of her "complaints," Leaky Boots and its inevitable follow-up Wet Socks.

In 2000, she wrote for The Chronicle: "I am 74. Born and raised in Seattle, Washington. During World War II I was working at Boeing as a production illustrator, 12-hour days, six days a week...."

"One Saturday night, went skating and met this sailor, gunner's mate, from the Adirondacks. Married him and came here in 1945, just in time for hunting season."

"Seven children, 16 grandchildren and five great grandchildren later, I've been complaining the whole time."

Carol Gregson of Pottersville was a member of the Serendipity Spinners, among her many involvements. Organizer Teresa Whalen dedicated this week's Christmas in Warrensburgh to her memory.

Carol's husband died of a heart attack in 1973, leaving her with that houseful of children. She went back to school — "at an age when most teachers were retiring," she wrote — and became an art teacher for Johnsburg Central School.

"About the time I finished paying for my education with my Social Security checks, it occurred to me that I might try writing about my various misadventures," Carol said in 2000.

Basil & Wick's celebration, 12/4

Daughter Kris Gregson Moss wrote last week, "This mother of mine got tired of the whole thing and decided to go for the real rest. She knew she was good at sleeping and disliked being unable to remember anything."

"So as she requests in her final sentence in Wet Socks; YES we'll have a Celebration! We are dutiful children. Please save the date: Saturday afternoon, December 4, Basil and Wick's, North Creek. There's a gift waiting there for you from Carol."

Unique art exhibit at Sandy Hill Center, HF

The Sandy Hill Arts Center, located in the former Masonic Hall on Main Street, Hudson Falls, presents a multimedia art installation by Fran Bull and collaborator Robert Black, called “We’re All at a Party Called Life on Earth.” The world premiere exhibit runs December 3 to January 15. Info: Sandyhillartscenter.com.

It incorporates painted figurative sculptures, architectural structures and works on paper. Ms. Bull, an international artist who comes to Hudson Valls via longtime friend Kendall McKernon, envisions the work, she writes, “as a community event. Part of its mission is to promote wholeness and creativity. Visitors, adults and children, are encouraged to engage with the installation by writing thoughts and making drawings,” with provided art supplies.

Dr. Kathleen Braico: So many diseases halted by vaccines; says, get vaccinated so Covid stops too

Dear Mark,

I wrote the following in an attempt to help people understand the role of immunizations and how everyone in the U.S. has been protected from so many dread diseases because of mass immunizations. Perhaps this will help some people who are hesitant to get the COVID vaccine in our area. Although it is rather long, I hope you can print it.

Remember when you didn't get sick? Do you have a smallpox vaccine scar on your shoulder or butt? No? In the 20th century, smallpox killed 300 million people. Intensive use of the vaccine eliminated smallpox in the U.S. by the middle of the 20th century, and we stopped routine vaccination in the 1970's. In fact, the smallpox vaccine was so successful that in 1980 the last case of smallpox was eradicated in the whole world.

Do you remember those 3 awful months that you and all your siblings spent coughing to the point of vomiting multiple times a day because the whole family got whooping cough? Your doctor told your mom "With whooping cough they start coughing in one season and end it in the next."

No? You don't? — Then you may well have been born after the 1940's when vaccines became available to stop the three killer diseases of tetanus, diphtheria (which choked off the airway) and whooping cough (pertussis).

How about those long, hot summers when you languished at home, not allowed to go to the community pool to swim with your friends? Not allowed to go to day camp or parties because your parents were terrified that you would become paralyzed by polio?

No? — Then you were probably born after 1955 when Jonas Salk's polio vaccine first became available and grateful parents rushed to get their children vaccinated. Due to the vaccine, polio went from paralyzing tens of thousands of people a year, to being eliminated from the U.S. by 1979.

Do you remember when you spent weeks of your childhood in bed, isolated from your friends and missing school because you had measles, then mumps, then German measles (rubella), then chicken pox? If you don't, you were probably born after 1960's when the MMR could protect you from the odds of getting the first 3, or after 1995, when the vaccine became available for chicken pox.

How about when your little cousin was hospitalized or perhaps even died of meningitis — or was it pneumonia? It could have been the germs HIB or meningococcus or pneumococcus that killed them.

No, it didn't happen? —Then they were probably born after 1985 for HIB, or 2005 for meningococcus or 2010 for pneumococcus, because that's when those vaccines hugely reduced those killer diseases in children.

Surely you remember your kids getting hepatitis A or maybe rotavirus diarrhea? Remember those sleepless nights with the febrile, vomiting toddler with massive diarrhea? No? Then thank your doctor and their armament of vaccines.

How about cancer? Wouldn't you like to protect your kids against it? The HPV vaccine can prevent throat cancer, as well as cervical, vaginal, penile, anal, and vulvar cancers, and the Hepatitis B vaccine can prevent liver cancer as well as hepatitis.

Did you know that the technology used to develop the Pfizer and Moderna vaccines was already being studied for 10 years in an attempt to make other vaccines against cancers? That is why the companies were able to pivot so quickly to use it to create the COVID vaccine.

Even the less effective flu vaccine has been estimated to save over 5700 lives a year in the U.S. In fact, if you receive the right vaccines today, you can travel to remote areas of the world without fear of getting Ebola, cholera, typhoid or Japanese encephalitis because you can be vaccinated against those diseases.

There are now 29 diseases that can be prevented by vaccines in humans, and another 11 protecting animals.

In 1900, 165 out of every 1000 infants died before they were one year old, and more than 200 out of 1000 died before they were 5. Now that rate has dropped nearly 24 fold to 7 out of 1000.

Public health measures caused this reduction in deaths, and one of the most important tools was and remains vaccination against communicable diseases.

Doctors in the U.S. today have likely never seen a case of smallpox, diphtheria, polio, measles, rubella or even bacterial meningitis due to these diseases being nearly eliminated in the U.S. through immunization.

It is quite likely that you are here because you, your parents and maybe even your grandparents received immunizations, or at least lived in a community that was so well immunized (>90-95% of the population immune) that there was no chance of coming in contact with these diseases.

With a history of vaccine successes like that, why would you not want to be vaccinated against the COVID virus that has already killed nearly three quarters of a million Americans and close to 5 million people world-wide?

Realizing the huge role that herd immunity plays in ending this pandemic, why would you not want to play your part in protecting not only yourself but also those you love and everyone else in your community?

In spite of the widespread availability of the vaccine, some people will remain vulnerable. By getting vaccinated yourself, you can help that woman stocking shelves in the grocery store who is on chemotherapy for breast cancer whose immune system is compromised, the child with a chronic illness who is too young to be vaccinated, the essential worker that is exposed to the virus on a daily basis, and more.

If you plan on trusting those doctors and nurses at the hospital who will be taking care of you when you are injured or sick, managing your ventilator when you can't breathe, your dialysis because your kidneys failed and your fluid and oxygen requirements when you get your heart attack, why wouldn't you trust them when they ask you to please, please get vaccinated against COVID?

Why would you sentence them to the agony of watching yet another patient die a needless death, from a disease that could have been prevented?

Contrary to popular opinion, vaccines are not just an individual choice. They are at their most effective when they can protect an entire population through that famous "herd immunity."

Get vaccinated against COVID! Then you can tell your grandchildren about when you survived the pandemic, and when you helped the rest of the world survive it as well. Be a vaccine hero!

LG school board: Warrior image, Diversity, Equity and Inclusion

forming a large ad hoc committee to address DEI, as charged by the state Board of Regents. She said the first step is working with CASDA, the Capital District School District Association, “to develop common language and terminology.”

Interim Superintendent Douglas Huntley, in an e-mail conversation with The Chronicle, quoted a regional schools statement: “The goal of Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion efforts is to create a positive learning environment for all students and eliminate barriers that limit a student’s chance to be successful.”

At Lake George, he said, “This work does not include changes to the curriculum or how it is taught.”

The committee is expected to include about 40 community members, with the only qualification “being a stakeholder in Lake George schools.” The goal: “To review sample policies, and receive community input and feedback,” beginning as soon as December.

Several community members at the meeting asked or were invited to join the committee as well. Those who spoke were by and large wary — concerned that the district may already be phasing out the Native American head in its logos, school rings, apparel, and — in many cases combining the issues — concerned that DEI is a couched way to introduce Critical Race Theory into the school curriculum.

At the board meeting, one woman said, “I just don’t want our school to become political...Once you start placing race on our people, that becomes a problem. I just don’t want that being forced on their heads just because the rest of the world around our tiny Lake George town is hopping on the ‘woke’ train.”

Rod Cornelius told the school board, “In my experience, this community has been welcoming to everyone, of every color, creed and religion.” Paraphrasing Critical Race Theory, he said, “From what I hear it would be tragic to teach children that they are oppressed or an oppressor, or that because of the color of their skin they’re privileged or they’re not.”

Several speakers asked why the board is taking up either of these issues at this moment, particularly while the district is without a permanent Superintendent.

Addressed Warren County Board

Lake George residents Linda Clark and Lisa Doster addressed both the School Board and the Warren County Board, and, at The Chronicle’s request, provided their written texts.

“Who is driving this?” Ms. Doster wrote. Her concern, echoing many who spoke at the School Board meeting, is that “the symbol of the Indian Warrior head is being phased out in a way hoping no one will notice.”

She added, “CRT or what is now being marketed to our teachers and our school as Diversity, Equity and Inclusion...is now becoming part of our local community, in our local schools, right here in our own backyard...When we create labels we are actually pushing further restrictions and division in individuals.”

Ms. Clark said, “This is a public school and parents should have a say in what their children are taught...When issues and policies are created that run deep into our government, such as the CRT and DEI, both promoted and founded by a political party and a left agenda, the political party on the right has a moral, ethical and societal obligation to balance and/or right what is happening.”

Videos of both full meetings are available online, on the Websites of the Lake George School District and the Warren County Board of Supervisors.

Tells us about someone you admire

Best mom ever!

One morning I woke up and went downstairs to feed the dog, but my mom was already down there feeding him. I was surprised because I’m always the first one up. “What do you want for breakfast?” she asked. “I want waffles please.”

She is so nice and kind, I would never want a different mom. She always brings me everywhere I want to go, she makes me food, and always loves me. In my opinion, I think she’s the best mom ever! Some days, she will bring me out for lunch or dinner. My dad is also the best, but my mom is better, haha.

Dad works hard

I admire my dad. My dad works hard but is fun. He swims with us. My dad is always happy and cuddly. When I get older I will work hard with my dad.

Military mom

Someone I admire is my mom. When I was a baby, she was in the military. I think it is hard not seeing her for 8 hours at a time, but she went months at a time without seeing me! I admire her for being brave.
