

Lake George dock space more scarce than ever

By Zander Frost
 Chronicle Staff Writer

Lake George dock space is at a premium, some say more so than ever before.

One long-time Lake George boater told The Chronicle he lost the slip he'd been renting and now "we may have to sell our boat," because he said he can't afford the $6,500 dock rental price he has been quoted elsewhere.

Brent Brewer, owner of Bug-U Pest Control, told The Chronicle he bought a brand new 2022 boat elsewhere but can't find a Lake George dock for it.

"I didn't think it would be that difficult, especially with my connections with people on the lake," he said. "People have their boat slips and they only have so many of them."

Mr. Brewer said he just missed out on a space at a Lake George motel. When The Chronicle called there, a staff member said they had just filled the last dock spot, at $7,500 for the summer.

Dave Wick, executive director of the Lake George Park Commission, said dock scarcity is perennial.

"We hear that every year. It's been around a lot longer than I've been around," he said. "There are always more people that want docks on Lake George than there are docks on Lake George."

Mr. Wick said, "That was actually the original premise of the Park Commission's dock regulations back in 1988, was to avoid a massive overdevelopment of the shoreline based on the amount of people that want to not trailer their boats, but dock their boats on Lake George." Of the rising prices for dock space, Mr. Wick said, "That is totally market driven. We don't track that."

Cathy: Fond recall of Gilbert Gottfried playing Glens Falls

Chronicle Managing Editor Cathy DeDe writes: Sad news, that comedian and actor Gilbert Gottfried died Tuesday at the age of 67 from complications due to muscular dystrophy, reports said.

Back in 2015, Mr. Gottfried did a show at Heritage Hall in the then-Glens Falls Civic Center that was so "blue" — and so equally hilarious — that I thought I might go to Hell just for being in the same room, or that my

Davidson's bldg. for sale; plan to keep restaurant

By Cathy DeDe
Chronicle Managing Editor

Davidson Brothers brewery/restaurant building downtown has been on the market for about a year — but a social media post last week of the Loopnet.com real estate investment Website just brought it to public attention.

Asking price is $1,995,000 for the two-story, 10,560 square foot building, touted for its exposed brick walls, “expansive” outdoor plaza, and annual traffic of 12,420 vehicles — “only 2%” trucks.

“The business is not for sale,” asserts Rick Davidson, who owns the 184 Glen building with his brother John, and their wives Kerry and Pam, respectively.

They purchased it in 1995 and opened the restaurant-brewpub in 1996.

Rick is the face of the business; he and Kerry run day-to-day operations. John is listed on Loopnet as the selling agent.

The listing suggests, “The business operation may be available for additional consideration,” but Rick predicts, “I’ll be running the restaurant until our son is out of school, and that’s when I’m 80. I love it now more than ever.” Besides, he says, “I can’t picture doing anything else.”

He says of the Loopnet offering, “We’re in no hurry; we have no plan to leave. If someone was interested in the building as an investment, we’d sell and lease it back to run the restaurant.”

Rick says, “The trend for the last 15 or 20 years is that you have professional, knowledgeable investment groups that own the properties. It’s becoming rare for retailers to own the building.

“Restaurants have such a low profit margin, the worst now I’ve seen in 26 years. Business coming in today is paying the bills you get today. It’s not the advantage it once was to own the real estate.”

“In a vibrant downtown like Glens Falls is, where an interested party owns the building, like Peter Hoffman does — quality projects, well done — that’s more valuable. These investors are upgrading the private infrastructure of the City.

“When we bought the building, it was a restaurant that had been owner-operated. After they closed, it just sat for a long time. If we’re leasing,” he says, referring to himself — “when Rick turns 85 and decides his son is through college and it’s been enough — a group of investors are more motivated to bring in a new business, to upgrade the property, build to suit. I would see that as a positive.”

“Due to staffing constraints,” particularly waitstaff and front of house, Rick said, the restaurant is open just four days a week, Thursdays to Sundays. “It’s more important that the people working with us enjoy it, and that the customers are happy, than to be open more than

They’ve scaled back from when they made their beers for regionwide distribution — including the ambitiously large facility they built themselves on Route 9 in

New Stewart's ready on Broad, old demolished

By Zander Frost
Chronicle Staff Writer

The Broad Street Stewart's Shop was demolished Tuesday. A newly constructed replacement, immediately behind it, was slated to open Wednesday.

Derek Leo, owner of Services Unlimited that did the demolition, said the entire process would be completed by the following day. He said knocking the building down isn't the hard part — it's separating the metal.

"Anything that's recyclable, like the metal and stuff, you don't want to send to the dump, you want to recycle it...All the concrete and all the brick and the block is recyclable also. So we pick all that out," he said.

"If you're paying to dump the metal you're kind of foolish. You could take a whole load of scrap back and get $800 for it...or you can put it in the truck and pay to discard it."

Mr. Leo said Services Unlimited mainly does "excavation and paving," and has completed around a dozen projects for Stewart's in the past few years.

"We pretty much did everybody in Glens Falls," he said, listing the Stewart's Shop on Ridge and Warren Streets, Aviation Road, Exit 17 locations. He also said they did the Keene, New York location.

He said Stewart's is a great customer. "They're wonderful...We do a lot of the new store builds with them. And then we also do a lot of their paving."

Hilltop Construction built the new shop and likewise constructs many Stewart's Shops.

Grass-roots effort challenges planned light on Shushan bridge

Chronicle editor Mark Frost writes: Late in this week's news cycle we were approached about a petition drive in the Washington County hamlet of Shushan that challenges lights planned on the soon to be built new Route 61 bridge.

"Permanent LED lights are proposed, whereas the current bridge has not had lights on its walkway for 60+ years, and the community appears to be staunchly opposed," Michael Maturo wrote.

He said they welcome the new bridge but "the County proposes to add 3 lights, 5000 lumens, at 10' height along the north side of the bridge, which will damage the nighttime experience of the Batten Kill, including adding light reflecting on the river visible from the Georgi...forever. And possibly even increase the speed of nighttime drivers."

They plan to present the petitions and press their case this Friday, April 15 at 10 a.m. at the Washington County Board of Supervisors meeting in Fort Edward.

The group said they tested the brightness of the light Tuesday evening.

Gilbert Gottfried, 67, memorable in his visits here

ears might bleed for a week after. Moreover, the show came just after a group of local stalwarts had formed the Glens Falls Civic Center Foundation to help raise funds for the Center. I'm guessing many on the Foundation did not suspect what they were in for when they bought their tickets as a show of support for the arena.

Even more memorably, after Mr. Gottfried had assailed us with jokes that piled one offensive image onto another, he came into the audience to sign autographs. He was sweet as pie, even vulnerable, asking earnestly, "Did you like it?" He returned a few years later to do a show at the Wood Theater — equally blue, equally generous, laughing and swapping stories with patrons afterwards at his autograph table.

SOUTH HIGH MARATHON DANCE

SGF Marathon Dance is May 13 at Great Escape; pre-Dance fair at the school May 7

By Cathy DeDe
Chronicle Managing Editor

The 45th annual South High Marathon Dance will again be shortened this year to one day, Friday, May 13, at the Great Escape. The school deemed outdoors a better choice than the crowded school gym during Covid.

But new this year: South High will host a 'pre-event' fair at South High Saturday, May 7. It will feature many of the community events typically held during Marathon — food sales, face painting, sale of T-shirts and other merchandise, a preview of the auction items and more.

On May 13, the day of the Great Escape SHMD, they will also repeat the special outdoor food truck corral on the grounds of the Shirt Factory in Glens Falls, with food sales, raffles and more to benefit the Dance —plus big screen projection of the live stream from the Dance at Great Escape.

It is still to be determined whether parents or the public will be able to attend Marathon itself at The Great Escape.

"There are a lot of protocols," Marathon Dance board member Ray Ruby tells The Chronicle, coordinating between the theme park, the school and the Health Departments of both Warren and Saratoga Counties.

The student chairs were excited that they will have more freedom at this year's Marathon, under loosened Covid protocols. The dancers will be together in one pavilion, not divided into 10-person 'pods' as they were last year.

"We were very grateful to have it, even if it was not as fun last year," said Rosa Lee Ray, who is in her second year as a student chair.

"It's good it can start changing," she said. "This year, it will be more fun.

"More important, I think we will lift a lot of spirits. More than the money, that is the goal of the Marathon, to lift the spirits of the recipients.

"I think this year it will lift the community in general, just to have something that feels more like the real Marathon."

May 1: St. Michael's Marathon Dance b'kfst

The St. Michael's Marathon Breakfast takes place Sunday, May 1, from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. at the Parish Hall, with all proceeds donated to the Marathon Dance.

"St. Michael the Archangel Catholic Church is thrilled to be hosting our popular Marathon Dance Breakfast Fundraiser...after a long hiatus due to the Covid-19 pandemic," the church said.

They're seeking donations of food and help in getting the word out. Info: 518-792-5859.

Michael Hammond named SGF middle school principal

South Glens Falls Central School District has named Michael Hammond as Principal of its Oliver W. Winch Middle School starting in July. He has been the school's assistant principal since 2019 and was a social studies teacher at South High for 15 years.

"Michael Hammond has proven himself to be an invaluable resource..." said Superintendent Kristine Orr was quoted in a press release. "His interview with the committee was very strong. We feel that he is the best fit for the principal role."

She said, "Mr. Hammond's hiring for this position once again shows what a strong pool of administrators we have here in the South Glens Falls District."

The salary is $100,000, the school said.

Dock space on Lake George scarce as boat season nears mission's designating as a marina any dock owner who rents even one slip, which requires providing rest rooms and trash disposal and paying a higher Commission fee.

Mr. Wick counters, "The Commission in my 10 years and Mike White's 27 years before me has never officially sought to decommission a marina, we actually don't have the authority to, we would have to have grounds to do so...non-compliance with their operating permit guidelines and regulations."

Marina shift: Rent boats, not docks

Mr. Wick said, "The number of available slips on Lake George from a marina perspective has definitely gone up in the last decade because we never decommissioned marinas at our meetings, they're only approved for new increases."

"However, by contrast, what we have seen is that our marinas have found that they can make more money doing rental boats than they can allowing seasonal berthing...and have increased, with permission from the Commission, their rental fleets."

Mr. Wick said rental boats bring their own challenges to the lake — both in terms of safety and heavy lake use.

"Over the last five to seven years, increasing your rental fleet on Lake George has become more and more difficult to get through the Park Commission Board of Commissioners because of those exact facts of its reduction to any available seasonal berthing," he said.

Resorts giving way to home owners

Tim Fish, general manager of the Norowal Marina in Bolton Landing, makes much the same point as Mr. Wick. "Most of the marinas now, they make more money renting boats than they do having private boats on their docks."

He also said many private spots to dock boats have disappeared.

"You see the Capri [resort] is gone now. People are going in and buying all these places that you used to be able to put your boat at. And now they're just getting bought up by private individuals."

Meanwhile, demand only increases.

"We're sold out every year," Mr. Fish said. "We also offer a dry dock program — It's about 35 boats...They pay one fee to launch here for the season. And that's even very difficult to get into lately."

Skyrocketing demand

Mr. Wick says boating demand on Lake George is skyrocketing.

"When COVID hit, we had a high number of boat launches or contacts at Million Dollar Beach of 30,000 contacts, that was our highest year. And then when COVID hit, we had 37,000 in just one year..."

"And then when people experience Lake George they say, 'Boy, what would it cost to have a boat on Lake George? Let me see if I can find a boat slip for rentals.'"

"And it is definitely difficult to find one. And that is unfortunate for all of us."

Mr. Wick notes, "I would love to have

Rental boats bring more intensive use

As more marinas focus on renting boats rather than renting dockspace, it has impact on Lake George.

Dave Wick, executive director of the Lake George Park Commission, said:

"We've calculated over the decades that most people will take out their boats generally twice per week, usually for anywhere between an hour and four hours a trip versus a rental boat that is out for eight hours a day, every single day, seven days a week."

"The number of trips per boat on a rental boat versus a seasonally berthed boat is we estimated about 15 times higher," he said.

Also, Mr. Wick said, "Rental boats are everything that we've talked about for years, which are you have less experienced drivers."

Last year, for a Chronicle story about the rise of small-scale charter boats on Lake George, Mr. Wick said they prefer the charters with trained captains to rental boaters.

Boats by George view

"It's been a growing issue," the shortage of dock space, Boats By George owner George Pensel told The Chronicle. "Although I have access to roughly 160, plus or minus, spaces at my two marinas, it's a struggle every year to fit everybody in and it seems to be getting worse."

"Boating is very popular and Lake George is very popular," he added. "It's the most beautiful lake in the country and we're very lucky to be here."

Mr. Pensel noted, "We are...maybe even a tighter situation with boat storage. Unless we've sold the boat, we aren't taking the boat storage because, for example in 2021 winter, we stored 660 boats and we're at capacity. If I'm going to increase that number, I'm going to have to expand facilities."

Mr. Pensel said dockage and quick launch at Boats by George are "very tight. But if there is a space that opens up, then that would be held for a new customer purchasing a boat."

Do they guarantee boat purchasers dock space? "If we have an opening we will communicate that with them at the time of purchase. And we're committed to that person."

He said, "Certainly our investment that we've made in marina space has been designed to help us care for our customers, people who have spent a substantial amount of money to purchase a boat..."

"We aren't going to sell them a $200,000 boat one year and then the next year tell them, well they have to go out and look."

Mr. Pensel said, "People in the past have had to work at it, but there's been some space available. I think it's getting tighter than it ever was."

Bullpen partners buy 75% of Dockside Landing Marina in Hague

The four Glens Falls partners who own The Bullpen tavern and Talk of the Town Restaurant have purchased a 75% interest in the Dockside Landing marina in Hague on Lake George. No purchase price was disclosed.

Paul Bricoccoli Jr., Scott Endieveri, and Jason and David Krogmann are the partners, who also operated the Horse-shoe Inn in Saratoga Springs.

The press release said, "The property and management will remain the same under the current leadership of Scott Olson, Rich Stolen and Stephanie Kemenczy. Olson and Stolen will now own 25% of the business."

The release, from Normandin Marketing, said, "Dockside Landing Marina is changing hands after more than a decade of success under a private ownership group led by now retired Phillip K. Whittemore of Whittemore, Dowen & Ricciardelli, CPA's."

Mr. Bricoccoli was quoted: "This opportunity came about after some casual discussions with our accountant, Phil. We've always tried to put money back into our businesses and sock some away for anything that might come up."

"As we started looking at this opportunity a bit closer, the timing felt right and it made good business sense."

Mr. Endieveri said, "Growing up here, we've always loved the Lake, so the opportunity of owning this lakefront property is just an awesome thing for us personally. All of Lake George is beautiful but the northern end in particular is not quite as developed, so it's just that much more pristine."

Mr. Krogmann said, "The business has done really very well over the last few years. Boat rentals have been up, even last season with a stretch of cold, rainy weather. The rental upstairs is booked for the whole season."

"Every year, the former owners had put aside funds for capital improvements which we plan to continue doing as well. There is a second building above the docks right now that is being used for storage. That...has good potential to be developed into something more."

Mr. Bricoccoli was quoted: "This is a new adventure and there will be somewhat of a learning curve for us this summer but we're very excited to work with Scott, Rich, and Stephanie who will continue to lead the day-to-day operation and keep us on our toes."

Mr. Whittemore was quoted: "Dockside Landing Marina was a good investment that I am thrilled to pass on to successful, local entrepreneurs like Paul Bricoccoli, Jason Krogmann, Dave Krogmann and Scott Endieveri. I think their teaming up with Rich Stolen and Scott Olson will take the marina to the next level."

Property owners who rent dock space are classified as marinas even for a single boat

When it comes to property owners renting space at their dock, the Lake George Park Commission “has two classifications of marinas — we have a Class A and Class B,” Executive Director Dave Wick tells The Chronicle.

“A Class B is, let’s say Zander has a dock on Lake George. You use half of it for your boat and you want to rent out the other half and offset some of your expenses.

“You can do that under what’s called a Class B Marina registration.”

Mr. Wick said a Class B marina owner must provide “bathroom facilities and garbage [disposal] for the person that you’re renting out to.”

“If you provide documentation of that to the Commission, then essentially you are allowed to rent your slip...That makes your dock commercial-residential, not a commercial dock,” he said.

“Instead of your $50 a year, you pay $5 a linear foot like all of the other marinas on Lake George.

“So if you had a 40 foot dock on Lake George that you’re paying $50 a year for, now you’re paying 40 times five, which is $200 a year. And then you have the benefit of making $4,000 or $5,000 a year to rent out your other dock slips,” Mr. Wick said.

“That’s been in place for more than 30 years, and it hasn’t changed.”

“Anything more than one boat is considered a Class A Marina.

“And those have to go in front of our Board of Commissioners, and then it goes out to public notice. And then if there’s concerns from the public, they have a chance to be heard. And then the commission will vote to move whether that Class A Marina or not.”
— Zander Frost

a boat slip on Lake George myself, I do not. And it’s simply the market forces for it and the limitations that were set by the state of New York and the legislature in setting the Commission’s regulations on the number of docks per unit of shoreline...

“Even my vice chairman, who’s now acting chairman, looked for almost a year to find a spot just to put his own boat, and he’d been on Lake George for decades.”

“But he was struggling to find a spot because the place that he had been going decided to take those slips and rent them out, given permission that they received from the Park Commission.”

“So that’s just the dynamics of how things work on Lake George and marinas shifting their interests based on whatever business models they have.”

14 Clean Air group fights Biochar project in Moreau; meeting is Monday, 4/18

To the Editor:

A project before the Moreau Town Planning Board threatens to increase air pollution in the area. I'm referring to the Saratoga Biochar Solutions project for the Moreau Industrial Park.

The feedstock for this industrial facility would be sewage sludge. This would be the first of its kind in the state, and there are many unanswered questions about its environmental impacts.

The planning board is holding a second hearing on the project at the Moreau Town Hall meeting room, 351 Reynolds Road in Moreau on Easter Monday, April 18, at 7 p.m.

Let's have a good turnout of area residents concerned about air pollution.

This facility would burn sewage sludge in a low/no oxygen environment to produce a type of charcoal called biochar. The biochar would be sold to farmers as a soil amendment for their fields.

The Global Alliance for Incineration Alternatives calls this unconventional burning process (pyrolysis) "incineration in disguise."

This proposed facility would pollute the air and harm residents' health. Plus sewage sludge (aka "biosolids") stinks.

The scariest pollutants in sewage sludge are PFAS, "forever chemicals." Whenever sewage sludge has been tested in the U.S., PFAS are detected. PFAS cause cancer, disrupt hormones and depress immune function.

PFAS are so hazardous that NYS set a drinking water limit of 10 parts per trillion. Maine allows PFAS in sewage sludge (for land application) in the low parts per billion, but most sewage sludge exceeds state limits.

New York wastewater treatment plants are not required to test for PFAS, and NYS DEC has only recently begun to test for PFAS in sewage sludge.

A DEC air engineer told me that his agency does not know what would happen to the PFAS in sewage sludge at such a plant. Would dangerous PFAS chemicals be emitted into the air? Would they break down into other compounds or recombine as other dangerous ones? Would they end up in wastewater? Or would they stay in the biochar (and thus pollute farm fields)?

This biochar plant would produce nitrogen oxides (NOx). These air pollutants cause breathing problems, headaches, chronically reduced lung function, eye irritation, loss of appetite, and corroded teeth. They also damage ecosystems.

NOx contribute to acid rain and haze. In sunlight, NOx combine with other pollutants to form ground-level ozone.

The pollution will blow across the river and affect residents of Glens Falls, Queensbury and the surrounding area. If PFAS chemicals are released through the stack, they will contaminate soil, water supplies and the river.

When PFAS is used in industrial production, drinking water wells have been contaminated by air-borne releases. PFAS in the soil leaches into groundwater.

The Clean Air Action Network (CAAN) of Glens Falls and neighbors concerned about the biochar project are working together to make sure that no polluting facility gets final approval.

For more information, check out CAAN's website www.cleanairactionnetwork.org

Weighs in on LG school board race

To the Editor:

Well, it appears that we have a good explanation of why this country is so divided, insularity borne of cultural illiteracy. This explanation recently found expression in the opinions of Lake George School Board candidate Linda Clark (The Chronicle March 31,2022).

Ms. Clark is running for the Lake George School Board because she does not want to see the school district going in the same direction that she perceives is happening nationally. She is particularly concerned about the district's proposed Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion (DEI) plan.

In her opinion, which is shared with her companion candidate Lisa Doster, the DEI includes educational concepts attributable to Critical Race Theory, which they assert has "a whole bunch of components having to do with racial issues." They asked, "What bias is in the district to bring forth a policy like this?" Not getting an answer, they proposed their own, "There aren't any of these issues in Lake George."

Perhaps not, but such issues do predominate throughout the country, if not the world. And that brings up the question of what our schools should be preparing our children for, life in the insular community of Lake George, or integration in the national community, indeed, in the global community. Should our children be educated to be culturally literate?

Doster and Clark may be sincere in their concerns. But when the parents of Lake George School District children go to the polls for the primary elections in June, or for the general elections in November, they should ask themselves how they want their children to be prepared for tomorrow, to be the boat boys, housekeepers, or tee shirt purveyors in their insular resort community, or to be prepared to face the challenges that they will undoubtedly face in our shrinking world.

The voters may not have many alternatives to Doster and Clark in the coming elections. If not, then the voters should make sure that their voices are otherwise heard at school board meetings or in the Parent, Teachers, Students Organization (PTSO). Doster and Clark purport to want transparency in the educational process, and they want the parents' voices "in their children's education." Let them be heard.

The parents' voices should make it known that in a democracy where the government is of the people, by the people and for the people, our children should be prepared to make valuable contributions to our American society, its economy, and most importantly, its government as one nation. Insular, close-minded cultural illiteracy is not the answer to the divisiveness plaguing America today, it is the problem.

LG Beach Club: ‘Testing water’ for sale; aims to reinvest in LG

By Cathy DeDe
Chronicle Managing Editor

The owners of the Lake George Beach Club, the two-deck waterfront restaurant next to Shepard Park in the center of the Lake George Village, put what they describe as their “thriving” business on the market, but it’s really “to test the waters.”

It’s listed for $6.5 million.

Managing partner Jose Filomeno told The Chronicle, “The market is hot in Lake George. We made a savvy decision to test the market, see where we are at.”

“Putting the cart before the horse, if the property does sell, we plan to reinvest immediately in Lake George,” he said.

Brewfest drew 500 at the Cool

Chronicle staff writer Zander Frost writes: The Glens Falls Brewfest drew a throng Saturday in Heritage Hall at the Cool Insuring Arena.

“We had just over 500 people attend,” plus 100 volunteers, vendors, brewers, and staff, Tracey Sullivan, Adirondack Theatre Festival Managing Director told The Chronicle, .

“Heritage Hall worked well,” she added. “It was a bit warm in the room, but this will be taken into consideration if we hold the event there next year.” She said, “We had a great time at the arena, so we will hopefully hold Brewfest there again in 2023, but this is not confirmed.”

The event took place for many years at the Queensbury Hotel.

The Brewfest benefits the Theatre Festival and the Feeder Canal Alliance.

How much was raised for the two beneficiaries was still being sorted out, but “it’s safe to say that we will each benefit from the event,” Ms. Sullivan said.

Farmer budget credit

other in the recent past.”

Mr. Dickinson and other local farmers urged the state not to lower from 60 to 40 hours the threshold above which they have to pay overtime, saying it would make it difficult to attract labor and undermine dairy farms’ economics. A panel backed the lowered threshold anyway.

The tax credit is designed to make the farmers whole. “I think a lot of the credit goes to the two Ag Chairs, Lupardo and Hinchey,” said Mr. Dickinson.

“They did not support lowering the [overtime] threshold and were real champions in the budget process.”

“I think it is fair to say now that the tax credit is in place we have no chance of keeping the threshold at 60. Let’s just hope she doesn’t lower it sooner than the wage board recommended,” he said.
