No Taste

By Cathy DeDe
Chronicle Managing Editor

Glens Falls Kiwanis Club's Taste of the North Country food festival will NOT take place as scheduled on Sunday, Oct. 2, in Glens Falls City Park.

It "just isn't possible this year," organizer Jerrod Ogden told The Chronicle.

"We had very few restaurants sign up, and they all have such staffing problems, food supplies, and costs. We want to honor the challenges our restaurant partners are having instead of trying to coerce them into something they can't do..."

"We're postponing Taste of the North Country until next year."

Mr. Ogden said, "We thank the restaurants. We understand the difficult time they are hav-

Hooked on Food Truck Corral!

By Zander Frost
Chronicle Staff Writer

The hardest part of Thursdays is choosing what to eat at the Food Truck Corral at the Shirt Factory in Glens Falls.

My group of friends takes a lap around the building to start, as each week the vendors change slightly. We scope out what we want to eat and drink before we hop in line.

The lines depend on weather and time of day — but you rarely wait for more than a few minutes.

I lived in Los Angeles for over six years before I moved back to Glens Falls. My friend Kevin moved back from Chicago; Amanda lived in Brooklyn.

One of the things we all miss is access to diverse cuisines. While Glens Falls has come a long way in terms of food options, it's still difficult to get access to all of the flavors that spoil you in a big city. The Corral scratches that international itch, in a Glens Falls way. No frills, just small Young saxophonist Sean Pettis and Taco Bell have a very good thing going.

The Glens Falls Class of 2020 graduate and student at Belmont College in Nashville has been an enthusiastic employee since 2020 at the Exit 18 Taco Bell in Queensbury.

He applied "because one of my friends worked there, not even gonna lie," he says. He thought it would be a fun little summer job.

"But then I stuck with it because everyone at Taco Bell, we

Warren County panels urge: Fund feasibility study for sports complex with hotel, more

Chronicle Managing Editor Cathy DeDe writes: Warren County's Tourism and Occupancy Tax committees want the county to hire a consultant for $96,000 to study the feasibility of developing a sports complex that could include a hotel, restaurants, retail, a sports medicine facility, offices and more.

"We're always interested in improving our standing as a

Arts & mural feedback 'overwhelmingly positive,' says committee

Our Arts District of Glens Falls Committee has been overjoyed by the overwhelmingly positive feedback we've received for creating a series of painted electrical boxes, artfully designed bike racks, and now a collection of large-scale murals. These murals are a product of public feedback that was received through multiple sources including: 1) A public survey
