GF Habitat plans 25-unit Qby. condo; thought to be a world first

By Cathy DeDe
Chronicle Managing Editor

You know how Habitat for Humanity builds houses for families?

Picture the classic scene: A swarm of community volunteers hammers boards, muds sheetrock, raises walls. The beneficiary family puts in “sweat equity” on the way to home ownership. The house is built. A key is handed over, threshold crossed, maybe a whoop of celebration.

Adam Feldman, the executive director of Glens Falls Area Habitat for Humanity, has a new plan: Build a 25-unit mixed income condo building in Queensbury at Fairfield Properties, on Baybridge, off Bay Road, near SUNY

Local Habitat for Humanity chief, an ex-banker, says: ‘Why help 1 or 2 families a year; maybe we can do 100’

‘I’m entrepreneurial,’ says Adam Feldman, Executive Director of the Glens Falls area Habitat for Humanity, in his office above Habitat’s Re-Store on Route 9 in Moreau. He said he’s a former Lehman Brothers banker.”

Adirondack. It’s a first for Habitat for Humanity “anywhere in the world,” to his knowledge, Mr. Feldman tells The Chronicle. “Why help one or two families a year, which has been our model so far? Is there a way we can do 100?”

He says, “Owners Dan and Pamela Valente have offered a philanthropic bargain sale” of the Please turn to page 11

Mark & Martha’s Vineyard

By Mark Frost
Chronicle Editor

I’d never been to Martha’s Vineyard until last weekend, when Sandy and I celebrated our anniversary there. Sandy loves the Vineyard. In recent years she’s gone there every summer, with one friend or another. Always trying to get me there. We enjoyed our three-day get-away. I’d go back.

Martha’s Vineyard is famously woke, rich and Democratic. You see plenty of “Black Lives Matter” banners and other declarations of progressivism. A favorite citadel of the

Says things have only gotten worse; urges: ‘Take back country from the Central Committee’

Editor,
Anyone with eyes can see the disastrous results inflicted on Americans by the “central committee” which is running our government. Nothing has improved since my letter almost a year ago. Ongoing severe inflation, out of control crime in cities, racism in the schools, and open borders remain the order of the day.

But Americans are waking up, and are going to take back the country from the central committee. As a result, the predicted lies, smears and diversions are flowing furiously from state-run media. The Disinformation

‘Donald Trump knew he lost, tried to steal election; Stefanik & Zeldin embrace violations’

To the Editor:
Thoughts before voting:
The January 6th committee presented clear, fair evidence of what led to that day’s events and how they unfolded. Trump supporters claim the committee is biased. They urge us not to watch the televised reports. Good citizenship requires us to go on line and watch the committee’s reports. Judge for yourself. Most of the important evidence is testimony under oath by Trump’s advisors, employees and family members.

Donald Trump knew he lost the election. Judges he appointed ruled against him. His
