Gay Moore's colossal legacy

Plans in hand, that's smiling, determined Gaynelle Moore at the Feeder Canal's wondrous Five Combines, next to her husband Charlie, who joined her in hatching the park project.

In the 1980s, she envisioned & achieved the Feeder Canal Park that thrives between Glens Falls and Hudson Falls

Hordes offer up ideas to replace 'Indian' (or not)

By Mark Frost
Chronicle Editor

Last Thursday, when we sent our weekly email with the link to the new Chronicle to our digital subscribers, for the first time we also posed a question and invited readers to respond.

We asked: 'With the New York State Education Department banning all Native American mascots by the end of the 2022-23 school year, What should the new Glens Falls School District Mascot be? Why?'

The email went out at 8:06 am. The first reply came at 8:11 replies kept coming and coming.

'My brother in law is a full blooded Montaukette Indian and

Gay Moore has died at age 90; what a mark she made

By Mark Frost
Chronicle Editor

Fortunately Gaynelle Moore

and her husband made a trip to Ottawa, Canada in the early 1980s. They saw a city making fabulous use of its historic Rideau Canal. In winter people skate to work on it as well as using it recreationally.

A spark was lit in the Moores' minds. They saw possibility in the overgrown, ignored but still functioning Feeder Canal that feeds water from the Hudson River above Glens Falls to keep the Champlain Canal flowing just east of Hudson Falls.

'Let's turn this into a linear park,' they decided. Gay made it

Sure, keep underestimating 'Scranton Joe'

To the Editor:

I'm responding to the letter containing a statement asserted to have been said about Joe Biden by Barack Obama. Maybe I'm just being woke to common decency, but I'm not going to repeat the
