

Wrestles way into Harvard

By Zander Frost Chronicle Staff Writer

Lake George's Logan Marissal has wrestled his way into Harvard University.

The 6'2", 260-pound, 19-yearold will wrestle in the Ivy League starting this season.

"It's definitely a crazy feeling for me," Logan said. "I'm more grateful than anything. Because it was really Lake George heavyweight Logan Marissal parlays post-grad prep into the lvy League a lot of luck. Like being in the right place at the right time."

Logan at Harvard wasn't an accident, though it took a postgrad year at a Massachusetts prep school to take him there.

"I was always a pretty good student in school," said Logan, who graduated from Lake George High in 2022 with a 4.0 GPA. "And I always wanted to go to a great institution.

"I wanted to use wrestling to try and help me get into a really good school, because some of these schools are just so hard to get into.

"Like Harvard, you could be the top of your class with perfect scores and extracurriculars and what not, you could still not get in. I was going to try and use wrestling as a vessel for me to get in."

rezone effort > 3 GF Police: Group of juveniles in crime spree

By Cathy DeDe Chronicle Managing Editor

The Glens Falls Police Department cited on its Facebook page on Wednesday, Aug. 23, "a large number of complaints of incidents that juveniles have been involved in over the last week."

Chief: We know who they are; the process takes time

Contacted for comment, Police Chief

Jarred Smith tells The Chronicle, the press release referred specifically to "three to four incidents in the city involving the same group of juveniles."

While criminal activity among youths "ebbs and flows," Chief Smith said, "I've not seen anything with this many juveniles all gathered at one place and doing it at the same time."

The Chief confirmed what Mayor Bill Collins told The Chronicle — that the youths are 12 to 16 years old, and that the department knows who they are, "but the process takes time."

FW Webb pulls rezone request; look elsewhere

By Zander Frost & Mark Frost

Chronicle Staff Writer & Editor

F.W. Webb has withdrawn its request to re-zone a 15-acre site on Quaker Road so it could build a 76,000 square-foot distribution center and store across from Garvey Volkswagen and Kia.

Why withdraw the application? "I can read the room," F.W. Webb Chief Operating Officer Bob Mucciarone told

The Chronicle Tuesday. "We're getting the stall. It takes three weeks to let us know how many copies you need ... and I feel Queensbury doesn't have the strength to support it," he said. "I'm not happy, but it's the way it is.

COO: 'I'm Ollaker

NLAKE GEORGEN

Glens Falls officials and residents of the nearby Windy Hill and Windy Ridge neighborhoods resisted the project.

Queensbury Supervisor John Strough told The Chronicle, "I don't know if I was totally surprised by it [the withdrawal], because I think there are better parcels in the town of Queensbury — and I hope they are planning on staying in the town of Queensbury — that would better fulfill their expansion plans than the one they pursued most recently."

Mr. Strough suggested a lot near the Quaker Road Walmart and Sportline.

"It is a managed intersection, it has a traffic light," Mr. Strough said.

"To me, that was a perfect location, it gave them the kind of exposure they were looking for," he added.

He said there were some wetland issues, but the town worked that out with Walmart. "If that is a lot that's still desirable to them, we would work with them to help solve the wetland issues there, too." Mr. Mucciarone said, "I'm looking right now" for a new location for the project.

"But I gotta be honest with you. If I find something out of Queensbury, that's going to be my number one priority, because I just think I've been harmed.'

Of the town wanting Webb to stay, Mr. Mucciarone said, "Queensbury should have done something different then."

"I've been very cordial with everybody. I've talked to everybody," Mr. Mucciarone said. "I haven't misrepresented anything. I've told the truth all along. I was trying to be kind to the neighbors. I tried to listen to what they wanted.

"But when I'm dealing with people who have an agenda and a finality to it, and I'm not supported, what am I gonna do?" He added, "What's going to happen is a big box is going to come in there. And those neighbors are going to be way worse off than if Webb had been able to do it. And they kind of deserve it.

Of the Quaker Road lot, Mr. Strough reiterated that he had been approached by a Realtor who said, "if we could rezone it, there is a developer interested in putting apartments up.

He said the Realtor "described those apartments as 55+ style, and would be minimal impacts to the local residential area being residential itself."

Our intern Hannah Hughes: Advice to those starting college

Editor's note: Hannah Hughes, a Ballston Spa resident entering her junior year at Emerson College in Boston, spent the summer as a paid journalism intern at The Chronicle. We asked her to offer advice to incoming college students.

By Hannah Hughes Chronicle Summer Staff

In September, I will be moving back to Boston to start my Junior year at Emerson College. It's startling to think how fast time has flown by, and how much I have changed in just the couple years I've been living in Boston. I've learned so much, not only in school, but about myself. It hasn't always been easy, but my experience at Emerson and in Boston has been life-changing, and I can't wait to go back! Here's some advice I have for incoming college students. • College is what

• College is what you make it. You might feel that there is a certain way college "has to be," but in reality, college is what you make it. Your experience is going to be different than anyone else's, so there is no sense in comparing yourself to others.

You like to spend your evenings watching television in bed? Or maybe in the library? Or maybe going out with friends? No wrong answers, all are part of the college experience. Having courage to do whats best for you is important!

• It takes time to adjust. The transition to college is difficult. To me, it felt like starting my life all over from square one, which at times was super overwhelming. Everyone around you always tells you how great college is, but its okay if you don't feel that way right away.

It's normal to question whether you've made the right decision, or to feel like you're behind everyone else, or to feel like something is missing at first. I know because I felt all of those things too! A lot of people do, and the good news is it gets better. Give yourself the time and space to feel it all, the good and the bad, and talk it out with a trusted friend or adult. Find joy in the little moments, and take it one day at a time.

• Try everything! You should take the opportunity to try new things. Although it may seem scary, push yourself out of your comfort zone. Take advantage of what's around you. Cities like Boston or New York obviously have a lot to offer off-campus, but find out what's in your college town and explore. Take time out of your week to go to a club meeting, try that new activity, or attend that social mixer. Reach out to people you meet and make plans. You never know what you might discover.

• Balance your schedule. As someone who is involved in extra-curricular activities, has an on-campus job, and is _________ a full-time student, I can

• Do what makes you happy. This may sound myself too thin.

those instead of spreading simple in theory, but it might take you some time to prioritize what's right for you. It's taken me two years to realize what I need to make time for in my schedule, and it's probably going to change as time goes on. The key to having a good college experience is really finding what you enjoy, big or small, and weaving it into your schedule. Find time to take a walk, or go to the gym, add that interesting elective to your schedule if you can, even something as simple as sitting in that sunny corner in your dorm room. No matter what anyone else says, if it sparks joy, it's worth your time.

Qby. students playing on new turf fields

Queensbury School athletes began fall practices Monday using the new synthetic turf field lined for football, soccer, lacrosse and field hockey, as well as turf fields for both baseball and softball.

'Queensbury UFSD [Union Free School District] residents voted to approve the turf field as part of a $19.75 million capital improvement project proposal back in December 2021. The district broke ground on the new turf athletic complex on March 1, 2023," the school said.

The turf field will better support athletic and physical education programs at Queensbury UFSD. The facility will provide a safe and consistent playing surface throughout spring, summer and fall.

"Physical education classes will be able to use the facility longer in the fall and earlier in the spring. The lights will extend playing capabilities as well."

It noted, "This year, Queensbury UFSD will host the Section 2 boys soccer championship games, the field hockey championship games and girls regional lacrosse in the spring."

GF school: turf update; middle school project continues

'We're all looking forward to getting on the new turf field and track," Glens Falls School District spokesperson Skye Heritage tells The Chronicle, "but they are not quite complete yet, and remain closed to everyone - students, staff, and the public.

Ŵe'll open up the field and track to our sports teams as soon as possible!'

The district plans a Kick-Off Block Party on Friday night, Sept. 22, with giveaways, food, refreshments, backyard games and a DJ at 5:30 p.m. before the 7 p.m. Varsity Football game against Broadalbin Perth.

Some sports practices are continuing at the school, but off the turf.

The Boys Soccer team is scheduled to play on the turf on Tuesday, Sept. 12.

Ğirls Soccer is scheduled on the turf on Wednesday, Sept. 20.

The Middle School's major renovation project will continue beyond the start of the school year on Thursday, Sept. 7.

The main entrance will be moved to the "O" door, near the auditorium stage door. The middle school office will be just inside the entrance, in the former photography classroom.

Thanks for reading our paper!

We're adding obituaries

By Mark Frost

Chronicle Editor

I've gotten to really like Bob Mucciarone. He's the Chief Operating Officer and Treasurer of F.W. Webb for whom he's worked for more than 30 years.

F.W. Webb says it "is the largest wholesale distributor of plumbing, heating, cooling, HVAC/R, LP Gas and industrial products in the Northeast," but it also emphasizes, "We are a family-owned business with roots that date back to 1866."

Bob comes across as real, polite and direct. And a nice guy.

He has been incredibly accessible to me as we've covered the F.W. Webb story (and as I've criticized their rezoning plan).

I reached out to talk about Webb's surprise decision to end its effort to rezone 15 acres as commercial industrial so they could build a 76,000 square foot distribution center on Quaker Road.

Bob isn't happy that their plans ran into such resistance from — and issues raised by — Glens Falls officials and neighbors. It all gave Queensbury pause.

"I can read the room," Bob told me about giving up the fight for that site. He said they're looking for a new one. "But I gotta be honest with you. If I find something out of Queensbury, that's going to be my number one priority, because I just think I've been harmed."

Bob also thinks neighbors like me who resisted the distribution center will regret losing F.W. Webb.

'What's going to happen," he said, "is a big box is going to come in there. And those neighbors are going to be way worse off than if Webb had been able to do it. And they kind of deserve it."

I appreciate people who speak honestly when they maintain an open two-way line of communication.

There was nothing nasty in Bob's reaction. He was letting me know how he sees things. He's a decent guy. As I say, I like and respect him. I hope Webb finds a good alternate site in Queensbury. And I hope something happens on those embattled 15 acres that makes everybody come away happy.

I also hope that town, planning and development officials at every local layer will do hearings and research before committing gung ho to a project.

I don't think anybody looked to mislead F.W. Webb as to the Quaker Road site's feasibility. I think it was that nobody understood the ramifications until that July 10 public hearing. Consciousness was raised. The system worked. It can always work better.

The Chronicle is getting into obituaries both by reader request and in our own game-plan.

We've contracted with Legacy.com, the same service that many if not most newspapers use, including The Post-Star. It offers an online database that makes obituaries easy to do and permanently (hopefully) accessible.

Zander, as with so many of our digital initiatives, is doing the hard work of getting us up to speed.

We never even announced it, but this week, to our surprise, arrived the very first Legacy obituary submitted directly via the web.

It's for Elliott P. Eldridge, who passed away on Aug. 23 at the age of 74. You'll find his obituary on page 7.

This is happening, frankly, more quickly than we planned for, but the marketplace - and our role in it is changing. We're adjusting accordingly.

We are also in the process of adding a reporter coming aboard in the next couple of months. Very exciting. It's big that we're starting to staff up again after shrinking so drastically to survive Covid. We're looking always to bring you an ever better newspaper (in print and digital).

Next up: We want to add an advertising salesperson. We're also thinking about administrative help.

We're amazed as always at the support you readers and advertisers — accord The Chronicle. We're on the grow again. This issue starts our 44th year!

Every time I think the pace can't get any faster, it accelerates. Tuesday morning I was reading F.W. Webb's response to the July 10 public hearing. We'd filed a FOIL — Freedom of Information Law — request and Town Clerk Caroline Barber fulfilled it.

I was planning to write about the response — which was interesting and strong - in this week's Chronicle. Then Queensbury Supervisor John Strough alerted me that Webb had withdrawn its application. So my planned article was moot. Immediately changed direction, made calls, dealt with the new story that only arose that minute. The life we choose.

She writes for The Atlantic and thinks for herself. She seems a wonderful person. Confiding her life and death struggle with breast cancer, she broke & won my heart.

She tweeted (or "x"ed) on Sunday night taking issue with Vice-President Kamala Harris's speech urging the audience to fight conservatives' "book bans."

Caitlin tweeted, "Why does she think only conservatives are 'banning' books in school libraries? Liberal school districts do it all the time. It's called 'weeding' the collections of books that present uncomfortable information." Hurrah for Caitlan. She sees two sides!

GF Police: 'Large number' of crime complaints citing 'same group of juveniles'

City Tavern on Elm Street.

He said "a group of juveniles were fighting amongst themselves and spilled over into the dining area. A couple of adults decided to intervene and it escalated."

He said the case is "under full investigation, and we have video of the incident."

Chief Smith said the alleged assault victims are cooperating with the investigation, as is Downtown City Tavern, where chairs and tables were damaged "during the fight."

Two other assaults were reported on the same day - on Broad Street near Sully's West, and on Maple Street near Siam Thai Sushi, Chief Smith said.

In those cases, he said, "The victims did not want to cooperate, so the investigation doesn't go any further, which continues to embolden these juveniles."

The Chief also confirmed drivers have been accosted on downtown streets.

'These children, juveniles, they try to take over the street. They ride in a group and take up the road, slowing traffic. The drivers behind them get understandably frustrated. They honk their horns, and then the juveniles get upset and take it out on the motorists.

Chief Smith said they've also been called about "the same group of juveniles" congregating in the Park Street parking garage.

As to reports items were tossed from the garage roof, the chief said, "It is possible. I'm not aware of all the calls. We are at 7,000, close to 8,000 calls so far this year. I don't hear about every one. I hear about the bigger incidents."

Asked about a report of a girl shot by a BB gun near 14 Hudson, the chief said, "I have not heard that."

Chief Smith also said, "I don't believe that is true," when asked about thirdhand reports that the department has confiscated as many as 25 BB guns or BB said to have happened near the Domino's Pizza. A widely viewed photo on Facebook showed a man's bloodied face.

As to reported bicycle thefts, the chief said, "In 17 years as an officer, bicycle larcenies are nothing new. The biggest thing I recommend is to get a bicycle lock."

He said he was not aware of more reported incidents involving the youths since the press release was issued.

'Report what you see'

To the public, Chief Smith urged, "If you see something happen, call us. Like with any other crime that you are victim to, or witness, call. If you are a victim you have to cooperate, file the supporting deposition, and see the process through.

"The police department is fully investigating these cases," he said. "We appreciate the cooperation from victims and people calling when they see something happening.'

Mayor: Glens Falls remains 'safest city'; police 'know who they are dealing with'

Glens Falls Mayor Bill Collins, who also chairs the city's Board of Public Safety, told The Chronicle, "There are a group of kids fighting with themselves and other people, committing assaults and crimes.

'The Police are on the case and investigating. I can tell you, this is Glens Falls. It's a small city. (The police) know who they are dealing with.

He said, "I meet with the (police) chief weekly. We have met no less than twice about this."

The Mayor said he could not speak on the record about ongoing investigations, but he said specific actions are being taken on several of the widely talked about events. "People need to trust their Police Department," he said. Asked if the City might convene a meeting with the public, the Mayor said, "There's no conversation to have. What we need: Tell us when crimes are happening or groups of anybody are creating mayhem. Tell us right away."

To reports by some people that they were told by officers "our hands are tied," Mayor Collins said, "It's simply not true. We stop them. It's more involved with a young person. It's not that their hands are tied but it does change what the police can do.'

We were named the safest city in the country," Mayor Collins said, "and it is still the safest city in the country. We know who the perpetrators are and we are addressing it with them."

Juveniles & the 'Raise the Age' law

Social media buzzes with comments and allegations. Chief Smith said, "People see these incidents happen. They are upset because they are not seeing (the offenders) getting handcuffed and put in the back of a police car. In many cases, anyway, they take off running. The police need to conduct their investigation."

The public is "not seeing the juveniles dragged to the station, so they think nothing is being done."

Two things thwart or slow prosecution, Chief Smith tells The Chronicle.

He said the crimes must be reported and victims willing to make statements "and see it through." Second, New York State's "Raise the Age" legislation, enacted in 2017 and fully implemented in 2019, raised from 16 to 18 the age at which a youth can be criminally charged — "depending on the crime."

"Now everything has to go to Family Court, working with Probation to determine the outcome," said Chief Smith.

"The object was to keep these kids out of adult jails, and prevent them from having a permanent record that sticks with

Business owners, first-hand views from the front line

"There's definitely been an increase in juvenile delinquent activity, absolutely, and it seems to be the same group of kids," said Journey Kerchner-Pirrone, General Manager and CFO of Downtown Hospitality Group, which operates Downtown City Tavern and Downtown Social.

"It seems to be the same group of kids. For the last two months it's been gradually escalating, and in the last two weeks it's been seriously escalating."

Mr. Kerchner-Pirrone said, "The police have always been quick to respond," to calls for incidents at both restaurants.

"We also have good cameras, and we often can provide video to the police or to other businesses. Every business should invest in video cameras.

Ben Miller who co-owns the building housing Park & Elm Restaurant and upthem forever," he said.

"Officers are frustrated for sure," said the chief, but he adds "I believe the original theory behind Raise the Age was appropriate. Unfortunately, when laws are made, no one can tell how it's going to affect things. The concern is that there are no real consequences to juveniles that are committing crimes." The chief said, "The process holds them accountable, but it's a long-term process, and does the consequence correct the action? That's what's frustrating." He said with more cooperation from victims, "they would get into Family Court sooner."

The police cannot release names of alleged perpetrators or the status or outcomes of the cases, "even if an arrest is made," the Department said in its press release, "due to the suspects in most of these cases being juveniles.'

Parents or guardians can be charged, Chief Smith said, "and we are pursuing that." Charges can be filed "for failure to exercise control of a minor.'

Chief Smith said once the matter goes to Family Court, the department is no longer involved, "unless we are called to testify," and they don't necessarily even learn the outcome.

Board of Public Safety, Sept. 13

The Glens Falls Board of Public Safety meets next on Wednesday, Sept. 13, at 4 p.m. in the Mayor's Conference Room at City Hall. Board members besides Mayor Collins are Tambrie Alden, Barry Cronkhite, Scarlett DeWitt, John Jenkins, Michael Seidel and Robert Stedman.

and throwing things from the top level." He says he's called the police - and noted several times when the youths escaped, running from the opposite entrance as police entered.

Mr. Miller said the restaurant and their Park Theater have seen minor vandalization this summer, but he could not say whether it was by youths or others.

Downtown building owner and Realtor Mark Levack said he discovered two windows damaged by BB gunshots, one a plate-glass window. He said he could not determine exactly when or by whom the damage was done.

"I'm a concerned downtown property owner whose property has been vandalized and I would like to know, what's the data on these incidents and are they escalating?'

"People want to blame the police, but I believe their hands are tied by state laws," he said. - Cathy DeDe riod, although this figure appears to be incomplete. For the Tri-County area, 75 deaths is a staggering number, particularly since such deaths are preventable and it can be assumed that victims are most likely younger in age.

An honest review of the CDC statistics would lead to the conclusion that such death toll is a trend and not an anomalous statistical blip. However, other than gross numbers, little information is disseminated to the public.

Are the deaths resulting from heroin usage? Are these overdose deaths the result of fentanyl-laced drugs? Are these deaths clustered in a few communities? What is the age of the victims?

Are the victims long-term residents of the respective communities? Did the victims have long-term drug problems? Were the victims in treatment, etc? Most importantly, where are these drugs leading to overdoses being acquired? As a first step, I believe that the Board of Supervisors in all three counties should request that the Sheriffs of each County to brief the Boards with the best information available to law enforcement so as to advise the public as to the general circumstances of these over- $\bar{d}oses.$ If the Boards are provided with information as to the exact nature of the problem, perhaps a path toward a solution could be devised.

In the past, there have always been drug overdoses in this area, although relatively few in number.

However, the current numbers are shocking and, insofar as the respective Board of Supervisors are in charge of local government and an action plan would require coordination of efforts with law enforcement agencies, coroners, social services departments, mental health provides, and the probation departments, the Board of Supervisors must take the lead in this regard immediately.

An effort has to be taken to reduce this death toll which is constantly mounting. There should be no delay.

Stefanik: Biden Education chief sought to defund shooting sports classes in schools; yields to outcry 21st District Congresswoman Elise Stefanik writes:

Hunting and archery are cherished traditions in Upstate New York and the North Country, where we enjoy a rich outdoor heritage especially in the Adirondacks. Our communities believe that outdoor recreation, whether it be hunting, fishing, archery, camping, or other related activities should be encouraged and cultivated from a young age.

During my time in Congress, I have visited many local schools that proudly offer hunting and archery education programs to students which provide critical life skills for students. These programs are beloved by Upstate students, teachers, and parents. According to survey data from the National Archery in the Schools Program, 40% of students said their participation in the program was a motivational factor for them to do better in the classroom.

Shockingly, President Joe Biden's Department of Education moved to strip these popular and safe programs of their funding. This funding provides opportunities for millions of American students each year to learn safe and responsible firearm handling, lessons about recreational shooting sports, and experience outdoor recreation.

These educational programs have long enjoyed bipartisan support and have near unblemished safety records while providing the opportunity for kids to learn about the outdoors and develop useful skills.

The National Archery in the Schools Program boasts 1.3 million students, while the Hunter Education Association certifies more than 500,000 young hunters each year — supporting both stewardship of our environment and responsible firearms handling.

In response, I led a letter with nearly 70 of my colleagues to Education Secretary Miguel Cardona condemning the Department of Education's decision and demanding a reversal of their action that would have far-reaching negative consequences. Acknowledging this intense pressure, the Department of Education issued a statement effectively admitting what they were doing was wrong and that they would work with Congress to ensure that these valuable enrichment opportunities remained in place for our students. I am proud to deliver this important result to protect these programs.

These important programs must always be protected now and in the future. That is why I am also a proud cosponsor of H.R. 5110, the Protecting Hunting Heritage and Education Act, which would amend the Elementary and Secondary Education Act to clarify school programs "training students in archery, hunting, or other shooting sports" are eligible for funding.

I will always fight to protect the Second Amendment and will continue to lead efforts to preserve these important educational programs, which provide excellent opportunities for students to safely learn to use firearms and participate in recreational shooting sports.

Urges: Visit the Shushan Covered Bridge Museum

To the Editor:

Have you visited our local gem The Shushan Covered Bridge Museum? The bridge is one of four covered bridges still standing in Washington County.

It's the only covered bridge being used as an historical museum with local artifacts. We have something of interest for everyone here. It's Free to visit and we are a hands-on interactive museum.

The covered bridge was built in 1858 by the Stevens Brothers. It's a Town Lattice Construction and spans 161 feet over the Battenkill River. One side is in the Town of Salem and the other side is in The Town of Jackson.

The bridge was originally built on the village green near the railroad depot by Yushaks' [Store] and reassembled over the river. The roadway interior is 16 feet wide and the bridge weighs about 80 tons

In 1974 a group of Shushanites saved the bridge from falling in the river and formed the Shushan Covered Bridge Association.

The museum stays open due to the dedication of volunteers and generous donations from visitors and supporters.

Next to the bridge, and part of the museum tour is an original one room schoolhouse that was used from 1852-1943. It was located just a few miles away and in the 1980's it was moved to its current location.

The museum is open Saturday and Sunday 1:00-4:00 or by appointment. Please like and share our Facebook page and message us there or at jgordon@ shushancoveredbridgemuseum.org.

We look forward to seeing you at the museum.

One more School View... Fort Edward pool

If you are looking for something to do this summer you should try the Fort Edward Pool. It is near Bradley Beach. This is fun because you can see your friends and go swimming with your friends too. Also, there are night parties. I like to swim there and get free goggles. You can go to the deep end too. What is your favorite pool to go to in the summer?

Last chance! The most fun thing to do here in the summer

Fishing in Luzerne

The most fun thing I like to do around here in the summer is fishing because it is lots of fun and peaceful. I like to go fishing in Lake Luzerne. We went out there on the kayaks when they just stocked it with rainbow trout. So at the beach there is a school of trout "flying" out of the water eating the bugs.

Also, there's a bunch of nice views and the birds are fun to watch, too. You have loons diving in the water and ospreys and eagles flying around. Finally, there's lots of big largemouth bass in there that are really fun to catch. My mom caught what felt like a five pound bass at least, and my dad and I caught some pretty good ones, too.

Fishing, water sports, camping

I think the most fun things to do in the summer are fishing and watersports. I like fishing in Lake George and Brant Lake. I like to fish for bass and trout. My favorite watersports are water skiing and tubing. We also go camping, on Lake Eaton, Forked Lake and Racket Lake.

> Hudson Gadjo Gr. 5, Mrs. Pandillo North Warren Central School

On the big boat

I would go on the big boat because being on the boat is the best! I go swimming, snor-keling, fishing and camping on the big boat.

Chase Morgan Gr. 2, Mrs. Hensler/Ms. Poetzsch Lake George Elementary School

Lots of camping

The most fun thing I do in the summer is go camping with my family. My parents told me that we are going to camp a lot this year, here are a few places we are going to. Roger's Rock, Moreau State Park, Golden Beach, and we are also going to Chestertown. I know you might think that is just an old town but it is not.

My grandma grew up there, she had a huge house and there was a lake there. They also have a field, they call it Big Rock because there is a big rock. We love to camp because we get to cook on the steaming fire. We also love camping because we get to be outside to see the wild.

History at Fort William Henry

The most fun thing I like to do locally in the Summer is go to Fort William Henry in Lake George. It's honestly lots of fun going to the tours in the fort where you can see all sorts of old firearms in action and learn about the fort's importance in the Seven Years War. Plus, it's fun rooms and look at the beautiful views you can get of Lake George from the fort. To add on, it's fun to stay during the late evening and try to discover the alleged paranormal activity that goes throughout the fort. I'm obsessed with history, and as such, Fort William Henry is quite the attraction to head to during the summer. That is the most fun thing to do in the area during the Summer

Begs for Great Escape!

The most fun thing to do in the summer is go to the Great Escape and the Great Escape Lodge. The Great Escape is a place that has many different roller coasters like the Steamin Demon and the Flashback. There are also rides like the Sasquatch. The Great Escape Lodge is an indoor water park with slides, surfboard practice, and a water slide with tubes. It is so fun that you don't want to leave. The Great Escape and the Great Escape Lodge are very fun, and you will ask your parents, "Can we stay for two more hours please?" You will just start begging.

> Ryker Cullember Gr. 4, Mrs. Moore Queensbury Intermediate School

Hiking

I think the most fun thing to do around here is to go hiking because you can explore the outside instead of sitting inside. Also it's good exercise for your body and it's healthy. You can learn a lot when you go hiking outside. There are a bunch of animals outside and a bunch of hiking places around here.

The BEST cheesecake EVER!

During the summer I love to go to my uncle and aunt's house and have a pool party with all of my family because we have a pool, good food, and desserts. Also they have a big sprin-kler and my aunt Makeyla makes the best and I am saying the BEST lemon cheesecake EVER. I get to see all of my family and cousins.

Mom's pool is fun

The most fun thing to do around here in the summer is to go swimming in my mom's pool. This is so fun because I can swim underwater with my whole entire body underwater. I can use some goggles underwater. I can use a floaty to float on top of water. I can play with my brothers. I can also talk underwater to my brother too immediate family to go to college. Logan says he started his unorthodox journey in seventh grade at Lake George, 'fairly late compared to most Division I wrestlers.

He was mostly a football player - running back and linebacker. He started wrestling on a whim, looking to add a second sport. He fell in love with it.

When a bad finger injury cost him a month of football season and "most of wrestling season...it was a wake up call," says Logan. "That was the sport that I really enjoy.

What's to love about wrestling?

"I've always been a pretty competitive guy. So to be in a solo sport — I control if I win or lose, that type of feeling to me was the best," he said. Plus, the "creativity," he said. "In a wrestling match, you can win a variety of ways, you can have a variety of styles."

Along with injuries, Logan lost his junior year to Covid, robbing him of the year colleges do most of their scouting.

Logan graduated from Lake George High in 2022 and had already been accepted at colleges, but his father Chris says Logan's coach at Journeyman wrestling in Malta asked if he would consider doing a post-grad year.

Logan received an offer from Northfield Mount Hermon prep school in Massachusetts.

"Honestly, financially we weren't prepared," says Chris, Logan's father. "We put some money aside for college...But this preparatory school was literally $72,000 for the year."

"I told them, 'Hey, listen, we so appre-ciate the offer. It's unbelievable...we just don't have that kind of money. We're just regular people.'

He says, "They came back with an offer for us. Basically, if we could pay $5,000, they would take him. And I wrote a check for $5,000 that basically barely covered his food costs for the year at that school. And they paid for everything else.'

The decision turned out to be a great one. Chris and Logan said the school invested time and energy in Logan, also helping him fill out his frame.

Chris said, "I told my son, who's going to invest $67,000 in you? Who do you know that's going to invest that kind of money in you today? We owe the school literally forever. And it did open that door to Harvard.'

But not immediately.

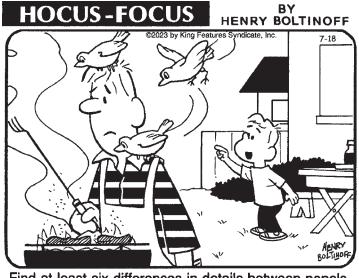

Logan said, "I emailed like 18 or 19 schools. Every single one of them responded to me — except Harvard."

"I was heartbroken because I went to a training camp over the summer at Harvard, I talked to the coach, I loved the area," he said.

So Logan's prep school coach sent Harvard Coach Jay Weiss a text.

"The next day, I got on the phone call with them" and was invited for a visit.

Chris said Harvard was the only school Logan spoke to that asked him "what else he would bring to the school" besides

LG school is now The Lakers; beat Falcons, 461-319

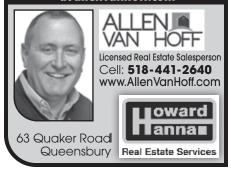

"The Lake George Lakers" it is. Lake George School was the Lakers from the 1920s to the early 1940s, the district noted. "We are excited to expand upon this unifying nickname and define what it means to be a Laker," Superintendent John Luthringer was quoted. New York State ended use of the Warriors.

Fourth grade school supplies

GF School: Free school supplies

By Hannah Hughes

Chronicle Summer Staff

Glens Falls School District is again providing its students with free school supplies, "a tradition happily continuing," says Superintendent Krislynn Dengler.

The district began this initiative in the Summer of 2020, for students from Universal Pre-K to high school seniors.

The goal is to "help ensure every Glens Falls student has what they need to learn at their best," said an email from Skye Heritage, Director of Public Relations and Information for the District.

'Since the inception we've budgeted $50/student for roughly 2,000 students for a total of $100,000," said Bobby Yusko, Assistant Superintendent for Business, in an email. The overall school budget for Glens Falls for 2023-24 is $57.1-million.

Dr. Dengler said the system not only saves families "money, time and tension," it also works in favor of teachers. "Every kid is coming in with...whatever it is they need to help kids get organized and be successful in their classroom." Providing students with supplies also limits teachers having to spend their own money.

Dr. Dengler says the initiative helps reinforce both a "child's eagerness to be ready for school and the teachers' expectations to have specific supplies," while also setting each student up for success.

"It just takes away that issue of the child that comes in and feels already at a disadvantage because they didn't have everything on the list.

This is one of several equity initiatives taken on by Glens Falls, which include providing students with Chromebooks, securing community eligibility for students to have free breakfast and lunch, and, with the help of community partners, providing students with a new Black Bear T-shirt as a way to help "every child feel included and valued within [the] school community," according to the email from Skye Heritage.

Dr. Dengler says, "We are investigating other ways we can provide equity," she said. She said she is always open to feedback and involvement. "I would just love to hear from parents if there's other needs that we could help with ... '
