How much does The Post-Star cost?

By Mark Frost
Chronicle Editor

A woman in Lake George contacted The Chronicle distressed about The Post-Star's cutting back its print edition to three days a week.

Lake George woman pays $765 a year

In the course of the conversation, she said she pays $765 a year for her print and digital subscription.

The number seemed so high to me that I asked if she could send me a copy of the bill.

The woman, a senior citizen, provided it readily. It indicates she is paid up through 3/28/24.

She expressed belief that she's not allowed to cancel.

The Chronicle looked at the

Q&A: Your favorite teacher...

By Mark Frost
Chronicle Editor

Our Question of the Week to digital subscribers was: Who was/is your favorite teacher? And why?

The answers were interesting. We start with one we found profound.

John Hall, Lake George:

My mother died of breast cancer in the Summer before I started 5th grade in Warrensburg Central School.

Fortunately I was assigned to the class taught by Thelma Geraghty. She was an extraor-

Hi Mark,

I wanted to share with you an email that I sent Senator Stec about a law firm based in NYC that is suing businesses across America. They have quite the money making machine going on from my research. We were hit with a lawsuit at Saratoga Olive Oil and I am sure there will be others in the area in the future. I want to warn my fellow

Librarian: We're not banning books, we're weeding the 'racist, one-sided, insensitive' to tell 'whole story'; 'trust the librarians'

To the Editor:

Something I read in The Inside Scoop on Aug 31st made me take a few steps back to see a wider perspective, and do some thinking. You mentioned an author, Caitlin Flanagan, that you admire because she sees both sides.

The issue at hand was book
