New Way Lunch closing its Qby. location

By Mark Frost
 Chronicle Editor

Family-owned mainstay New Way Lunch will close its Queensbury location at the end of December when its lease on Upper Glen Street expires.

"It's just too much," said Peter Gazetos, who operates the 103-year-old fourth-generation hot dog specialist with his wife Susan and their son Nick and daughter Ali Gazetos Mineo.

"There's not enough time in the day. With food prices up 40 percent, labor, energy, the whole thing — and the difficulty in finding help, it just didn't make sense for us anymore" to operate all three restaurants.

He said they will reemphasize

Only in The Chronicle: Both sides in Rockwell Falls Library fight

By Zander Frost
 Chronicle Staff Writer

A series of resignations has left the Rockwell Falls Library Board of Trustees in Lake Luzerne with two members, less than the three needed for a quorum. Now, the New York State Board of Regents will step in and pick three additional Says Qby. must decide: Do possible Schermerhorn apts. on Quaker Road have safe exit & entry?

Dear Mark,

Re: Potential apartment project on Quaker [Road where the F.W. Webb fell through to build a distribution center].

It should be no surprise to anyone that something is eventually going to happen to that
