Cathy rides (& pedals) Revolution Rail

By Cathy DeDe
Chronicle Managing Editor

Finally!
I've eyed Revolution Rail's Adirondack outings since they opened in North Creek in 2017. Three Wednesdays ago on a hospitably mild afternoon I got to ride the rails.
There were five in our group, using one two-seated double and a four-seat "quad."
We pedalled 3.5 miles each way on the North Bridge run — crossing a short trestle bridge above the Hudson River.

Revolution Rail designs and manufactures its rail bikes, human powered "carts" that fit on old railroad tracks.
You're seated, slightly reclined, like on a recumbent road bike.
I was a little nervous about the pedalling. I consider myself pretty strong, except for the achy 62-year knees and ankles
I come attached with, as of my most recent birthday.
It was better than fine. Totally do-able. The way out offers a bit of an incline, barely discernible to the eye but felt in the legs. The reclined position means your core engages too, power bonus.
Also note, not everyone on the cart has to contribute pedal-

The duo remaking Autoworld

By Zander Frost
Chronicle Staff Writer

In May Ben Alden and Brian McKenzie spent $1-million to buy the long vacant Autoworld Suzuki building on Route 9 in Moreau.
Now they are transforming the 12,000-square foot building into Moreau Commons, with space for seven or eight businesses and a shared common area. They hope to open it by Nov. 1. Tenants already signed

More about Sears mail order houses

Hi Mark,
Enjoyed your piece about Mail order Houses [July 17 Chronicle]. The first home my late husband and I bought was a Mail order home in Niskayuna, NY. It was on Regent St. in Niskayuna, and the
