NYS: Prep for Emergency

By Mark Frost
Chronicle Editor

It seems efforts are increasing to get people to prepare for emergencies. My wife Sandra took a day course by Warren County and encountered Chronicle alums Joyce Miller and Barbara Melville there, too.

Do these things; acquire these items

One of the items Sandy came away with was the New York State Emergency Information Handbook published by the state's Homeland Security and Emergency Services. The 81-page pamphlet goes into tremendous detail.

The back cover summarizes: Ten Steps to Safety.

1. Identify & discuss potential emergencies with your family.
2. Develop an emergency plan.
3. Identify two places where you and your family will meet in an emergency.
4. Practice your plan.
5. Review and revise your plan as needed.
6. Prepare emergency supplies and rotate food items frequently.
7. Gather and safeguard im-

Rogge has it rolling

By Cathy DeDe
Chronicle Managing Editor

In 2020 Queensbury native Mike Rogge bought a storied but defunct magazine called Mountain Gazette for $5,000.

Six years later it's nominated for a prestigious National Magazine Award in the category of Feature Writing vs. industry heavyweights The New Yorker,

New York, The Atlantic and Harper's, plus Texas Monthly and a specialty medical mag called STAT.

The American Society of Magazine Editors awards will be presented at a gala in New York City on May 19.

Mountain Gazette is nominated for a story called "The Bear Suit," by freelance writer Owen Long about a

His Mountain Gazette has 33,000 paying subscribers & a big National Magazine nomination vs. New Yorker, the top dogs.

Sheriff: Details on the fraud

By Cathy DeDe
Chronicle Managing Editor

Warren County Sheriff Jim LaFarr updated the County Board of Supervisors Friday on his investigation of the $3.3 million wire transfer fraud perpetrated on the county in December 2025.

"I can say to you that we have solved this crime," he said, on what he called "Day 116" since the fraud was discovered.

He said no one has yet been arrested and much of the money has not been recovered.

Treasurer's office details

Sheriff LaFarr said, "Between Novem-
