Great Escape's new prez, 35, is home-grown

By Cathy DeDe
Chronicle Managing Editor

Newly named Great Escape President Andrew Berggraf, 35, started his career at the park 20 years ago as a Lake George High School 10th grader. "I started as a sweeper, keeping the midways clean," he tells The Chronicle.

He took the job so he could buy his dad's Jeep. "I thought, I gotta find something fun, and I lived right around the corner from Great Escape. I rode my bike to work for the whole summer, and earned the cash to pay for my dad's Jeep. The following year at least I had a car to drive to work."

Cut to the present. Enchanted Parks took ownership in April of The Great Escape and five other parks across the U.S. as part of a $315 million portfolio investment by parent company EPR Properties. (The park will continue to operate under the Six Flags name through this year.)

Right away, Enchanted reinstated the role of park president last held at the Great Escape by

Who will win Elise seat?

By Mark Frost
Chronicle Editor

These days either I'm asking people who is going to win Elise Stefanik's Congressional seat — or other people are asking the same question of me.

Nobody knows for sure.

Most people think Democrat

Disputes D.A. in Argyle dog deaths

Responding to 'Guilty plea, probation in Argyle dog deaths' story, June 4 Chronicle
To the Editor:

[Washington County District Attorney Tony] Jordan is a joke. I don't know what quack he talked to but the dogs didn't just go to sleep!

They would not simply go to sleep. In a small, unventilated 12'x16' shed, 22 dogs would face a life-threatening, dangerous environment within

GI docs: GF has gastroenterology care

To the Chronicle Editorial Staff:
Our practice, Gastroenterology Associates of Northern New York, must address a statement included in the recently published [June 4] article regarding the proposed medical campus off Exit 18 involving Hudson Headwaters Health Network, Glens Falls Hospital, and others.

The article inaccurately implied that there is a lack of gastroenterology (GI) presence

Says, use porta potties

To the Editor:
I'm once again reading the controversial topic of locking the restroom at the police station. [June 4 Chronicle, "CDTA: Use coded padlock for 24-hour toilet access at police station"].

What if the city placed Porta potties in strategic places around town and had them painted similarly to building murals, adirondack chairs, etc. There are plenty of inconspicuous locations for placement. A local company can
