

Sandra: On a Lake George island history cruise with author Noah Chirnomas

By Sandra Hutchinson Chronicle Vice-President

On Monday, July 27, I and about 15 other people took a cruise on the Lake George Association Floating Classroom through the Narrows of Lake George, with commentary by Noah Chirnomas, author of the recently released book The Islands of Lake George. Todd Earl captained the vessel.

As regular readers of The Chronicle know, we have been featuring weekly excerpts from Noah's book.

Noah, age 22, a recent graduate of Muhlenberg College, has produced an impressive 326-page book detailing the history and lore of the 125 named islands on the lake, with numerous historical photographs.

Having spent countless hours among the islands, almost exclusively in the area of the lake known as the Narrows, I was thrilled to grab one of the quickly-sold out spots on the two-hour cruise. I learned too many interesting facts to include here, but I will mention a few. Whoever named the Hens and Chickens Please turn to page 26

Fresh facts: 14 Mile Island is not 14 miles from the village!

Mayor defends permit parking lot plan

By Cathy DeDe
Chronicle Managing Editor

The resolution was tabled at the July 28 Common Council meeting in the face of many negative comments by the public, but Glens Falls Mayor Diana Palmer continued touting her parking lot permit fee plan in a follow-up conversation with The Chronicle the next Thursday.

Also participating were City Clerk Megan Nolin and Deputy Clerk Emily Neal.

The plan would turn the city lots on Warren Street next to St. Mary's School, on Ridge Street next to City Hall and on Exchange Street behind Davidson's Restaurant into permit parking only, ending the current free parking with a three-hour limit. It also involved the first floor of the Clinton Street parking garage near Elm Street.

Mayor Palmer says the plan "was a reaction to tons and tons of input that the Clerk's office, the Mayor's office, the Common Council had gotten — an attempt to try to help people by first creating more free parking
